

Russians Warn U. S. of Jap Reactionaries; MacArthur Is Boss

Four-Power Allied Council Will Hold Next Session April 17; Russians Withdraw Ban on Newsmen; Will Check Membership of Diet

Tokyo, April 5 (AP)—General MacArthur launched the four-power Allied Council for Japan today, notifying it that its function would be to advise him, while he retains unchallenged command. The council promptly gave him four pieces of advice, all offered by Russia whose delegate warned of "increasing activity of reactionary forces" among Japanese.

Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, Soviet representative, spoke up as soon as MacArthur's opening address—a stirring plea for all nations to renounce their right to wage war—was finished.

Derevyanko proposed: Excluding the press; examining MacArthur's decrees seven days and imperial rescripts 10 days in advance of their issuance to Japanese; internationalizing the council secretariat (U. S. Brig. Gen. Bonner F. Fellers now is secretary-general); and holding new Japanese elections if next Wednesday's balloting elects "unsuitable" Diet members.

MacArthur in his speech said it was advisable that all council meetings be open to public and press, to avoid any suspicion of "secret devices, undertakings or commitments."

At the suggestion of British Commonwealth Representative W. McMahon Ball, Russia withdrew her request to bar the press from all meetings, and the council agreed to admit newsmen to "major meetings." They will be barred from "unofficial meetings" whenever the council sees fit.

The council's next session, formally scheduled for April 17, presumably will be classified as major. Among other business, Russia's proposal to internationalize the council secretariat will be discussed at that time.

The Soviet delegate's suggestions that a second election be considered and that council members be given advance knowledge of Allied and imperial decrees will be brought to General MacArthur's attention, Maj. Gen. William F. Marquat, MacArthur's deputy on the council, informed Derevyanko.

Through an interpreter, Derevyanko asserted that "the general situation in Japan, and increasing activity of reactionary forces during the election campaign," gave foundation to presume that reactionary parties, possibly incorrect and the total cost has now been set at only $150,000. This sum is offset, municipal officials say, by the benefits that would accrue to police department and police service.

U. S. Policy Blasts Made By Pepper

This Country Guarantees Anglo Imperialism, Is the Senator's View; Hatch Disagrees Raps Efficiency

Martin Says Department Works Is at Lowest Point

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Congressional friends and foes of Secretary of State Byrnes heaped fuel today on a foreign policy debate touched off by Senator Pepper's contention that this country is guaranteeing "British imperialism."

Challenging the Florida Democrat's assertion that the United States and Britain have "ganged up against Russia," Senator Hatch (D-NM) told a reporter he believes Byrnes is "following a firm course that is calculated to strengthen the United Nations, where a lesser course would destroy it."

Hatch took issue with Pepper's charge—made in the course of a lambasting of British foreign policies yesterday—that other nations have sought to "put Russia in a hole" in the U. N. Security Council.

"The only difficulties Russia has will encounter in the United Nations are those which it creates herself," declared Hatch, a personal friend of both Byrnes and President Truman.

Across the capitol, House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) made no direct reference to the Pepper-Hatch clash but said in his House State Department efficiency has reached "its lowest ebb." He suggested in an interview that the department purge itself of "incompetents and undesirables."

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.), a veteran member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, similarly professed herself "deeply disturbed" over the department's operation and advocated "far greater liaison" with Capitol Hill.

But Senator Byrnes' home state, joined with Hatch in criticizing the Florida senator's charge that the State Department is "hardening the arteries" in American foreign policy.

"Secretary Byrnes is carrying out a cautious policy that is designed to strengthen the U. N.," Byrnes said. "He called 'Russia's bluff on some points, but he did it in the interest of the little nations. He certainly is not playing the British game.'"

Hatch said he thought Pepper had "ignored what Russia has done" in telling the Senate that the United States ought to demand a "single standard" in international affairs under which Britain would withdraw any troops it maintains in a non-Axis country.

The Florida senator said the thing for the nations to do is to sit down at the U. N. council table "and discuss power politics and

Diplomats Are Cautious Over Pact Between Russia and Iran; Some Say Agreement Strengthens Reds Assurances

Russians Leave Iranian City

Russians Probably Will Get What They Want in Oil Concessions in Iran

Rulers May Lose

Azerbaijan Government Might Be on Its Way Out

New York, April 5 (AP)—Word of the new Russo-Iranian agreement announced at Tehran today was received with obvious caution by diplomats in the United Nations, although first reactions were generally favorable. Some suggested the pact actually strengthened and broadened Russia's assurances of troop removals from Iran which the Security Council yesterday formally accepted.

However, the speed with which the agreement followed upon the Security Council's action evidently caught the experts by surprise. The reserve with which they greeted it was explained by some as reflecting a determination to make doubly sure that Russia had not exerted any new pressures on Iran.

Authoritative interpretations of the three points of the pact brought out these angles: Iran's commitment to submit to parliament in seven months oil concessions for Russia undoubtedly means the Russians will get substantially what they want in the way of oil rights. American officials had expected this and expressed only the reservation that they hoped it would be a strictly commercial arrangement with no political clauses.

The new self-proclaimed autonomous government of Azerbaijan may be on its way out. The Russians appear to have agreed that the status of Azerbaijan is a purely internal affair to be worked out in a "benevolent spirit" toward the people of Azerbaijan.

The provision for removal of all Red Army troops from Iranian soil in a month and a half from March 24 merely formalizes the assurances already given by Russia to the Security Council and upon which the Council acted yesterday when it voted to defer the Iranian case until May 6. It now appears quite likely, with good faith on all sides, the Iranians complaints may not have to be brought up again.

Signing of a three-point agreement today between Iran and Russia which provided for the formation of a joint Iranian-Soviet Oil Company was announced in Tehran.

Terms of the proposal for oil concessions to Russia "will be submitted to the 15th Majlis (Parliament) for its approval within seven months after March 24," the Iranian government said.

The other points were that Red Army troops would evacuate Iran unconditionally within six weeks from March 25 and that Iran's problem with Azerbaijan province, which has proclaimed autonomy, would be recognized as "a purely internal affair."

Premier Ahmed Qavam of Iran and Soviet Ambassador I. V. Sadchikov signed the accord. The Moscow radio commented that there was "complete agreement on all questions."

Controversy Seems Settled

The immediate controversy over evacuation of the troops appeared reasonably well settled by Russia's promise, which the council accepted yesterday, that her forces would all be withdrawn by early next month. The case may come up again a month from tomorrow but if the Red Army is out by then any council action probably would be little more than a formality.

With the crisis thus passed and their docket clear of political issues for the moment, Security Council members swung over to day to the task of building up the machinery of their organization. Legal experts were polishing up a new set of rules of procedure for the council and its next meeting on Tuesday afternoon, probably will be devoted entirely to debating the rules.

So far the council has handled one tough case after another, at London and here, by deciding procedure more or less as it went along.

Tips on Escaped Slayer Pass 1,000; Might Attempt Passage to Pacific

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Police and F.B.I. men ran down scores of tips today but Earl McFarland, 24-year-old former marine and convicted rape slayer, remained at large after escaping from the District of Columbia jail death row Wednesday.

Metropolitan police put out a leaflet that the veteran of Guadalcanal might attempt to flee to South America or to Australia, as the number of tips given them passed 1,000.

One tip which seemed especially hopeful to Washington police sent five carloads of district and Maryland officers speeding to suburban Deanwood Park early today, but it was a fruitless search.

A taxi driver reported he saw a man slinking along the street in Deanwood who closely resembled McFarland. He later declared, when shown an enlarged photograph of McFarland, sentenced to die for ravishing and killing an 18-year-old government worker from Chippewa Falls, Wis., that he was positive that was the man he saw.

A store in the neighborhood was reported broken into at about the time officers sped to the section, with nothing but food being taken. Fingerprints found in the store were hurriedly developed but police said they did not match McFarland's.

The 25,000 police leaflets which were sent throughout the nation describing McFarland and saying he might attempt to leave the country also offered a $3,000 reward for information leading to his capture. That is the maximum permitted by law for the police to offer.

A subcommittee of the House district committee, headed by Rep. Herbert (D-La.), was directed to make a full inquiry into the jail-break in which McFarland was accompanied by Joseph D. Medley, 44-year-old man convicted of the killing of one red-headed woman and implicated by police in the slayings of two others.

Medley was found hiding in a sewer pipe on the banks of the Anacostia river eight hours after he and McFarland escaped by overpowering two jail guards with whom they had been playing cards, police said.

The condemned men cut their way out of a roof ventilator with an open can, slid down a 60-foot rope made of sheets, and left wearing the guards' uniforms.

Stamford, Conn., April 5 (AP)—One of the nation's longest and most bitterly fought labor disputes since V-J Day was settled early today as union and company negotiators reached an agreement ending the 21-week-old strike at the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company's lock factory here.

The settlement, announced in New York city shortly before one o'clock this morning at the conclusion of day-long session, was to be submitted for ratification at a mass meeting at 3 p. m. (E.S.T.) here of members of the International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.).

About 2,700 members of the machinists' union struck last November 7, demanding a 30 per cent wage increase and a closed shop, and 450 office workers have refused to cross their picket lines.

Terms of the agreement were withheld pending the union meeting by participants in the New York conference. Noel P. Fox, chairman of a panel of three federal conciliators which had kept the negotiations in progress since March 28, said it had been signed

Health Nurse Week Scheduled in City

Kingston will join plan of Nation-Wide Scope to Educate Public

"Know Your Public Health Nurse Week" will be observed in Kingston next week, as part of the nation-wide educational program to acquaint the public with the work being done by the public health nurses.

The week is sponsored by the national organization for Public Health Nursing, a voluntary organization, to promote interest in the work accomplished by the nursing service in each community.

The lay committee of the city's public health nursing service has arranged an interesting program for next week in Kingston.

The big social event of the week will be the card party to be held Tuesday evening in the municipal auditorium when more than a thousand card players of the city are expected to attend.

This card party is being held to raise funds to defray the expenses of establishing a Well Baby Clinic in the Health Center on East O'Reilly street. It is planned to open this clinic about May 1.

The lay committee has sent notices to all of the clergy of the city asking them to announce from their pulpits on Sunday the designation of the week as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week.

It is also planned to hold an open house at the rooms of the Board of Health at the city hall each day, from Monday through Friday. During the morning the hours will be from 11 to 12 o'clock, and in the afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock.

At this time the public will be given the opportunity of meeting the members of the city's public health nursing service, and obtain a better idea of the work being accomplished by the five nurses under the supervision of Miss

UNville in the Bronx Is Big Boom Town of 3,000

By CARL HODGE AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York, April 5 (AP)—Behind a high wire fence up in the Bronx, a new village has sprung to life as rapidly as a Texas oil town. Pundsters call it UNville.

Unlike other boom towns, the temporary home of the United Nations Security Council is an exclusive village, perhaps one of the most particular in the world about its population.

It has its own police, postmark, telephone exchanges, hospital, bank, newspaper and library. It is the home by day of more than 3,000 persons.

One thing missing at UNville, formerly The Hunter College Campus, is the boom town hospitality. Stern United Nations police bar at the gates all but delegates and their staffs, UN employees, newsmen and the patient 45 of the "general public" who, after standing in line for hours, may watch each council session.

UNville looks little like a village, but neither does it look particularly like a peace factory. It still looks like Hunter College.

The crews who masked the cavernous Hunter gym—now the council chamber—with beige drapes, blond tables and plush theatre seats could hardly change the architecture of the quartet of turreted, stone, college buildings.

It is as polyglot a town, though, as the melting pot city surrounds it. Stenoographers from Britain and Russia mingle with clerks from China and Brooklyn. Everything readable—signs on the green, flag-decked quadrangle,

Ulster Red Cross Tops Quota With $46,050

The local Red Cross has topped its quota in the Fund Campaign—for the second time in its history. Reporting total receipts of $46,050 today, against its quota of $46,000, the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross Headquarters, states that 11 out of 21 townships have exceeded their quotas and 10 out of 13 wards in the City of Kingston have made their quotas.

Following last year's precedent of making the established quota, the local Red Cross Fund Campaign, under the chairmanship of A. B. Shufeldt, now intends to close its campaign on April 12.

Three of the wards in the city and 10 townships in the county which have not reached their respective quotas are still working, and local headquarters expect that the final returns will place Ulster County Chapter far in excess of the $46,000.

Russians Warn U. S. of Jap Reactionaries; MacArthur Is Boss

Four-Power Allied Council Will Hold Next Session April 17; Russians Withdraw Ban on Newsmen; Will Check Membership of Diet

Tokyo, April 5 (AP)—General MacArthur launched the four-power Allied Council for Japan today, notifying it that its function would be to advise him, while he retains unchallenged command. The council promptly gave him four pieces of advice, all offered by Russia whose delegate warned of "increasing activity of reactionary forces" among Japanese.

Lt. Gen. Kuznia Derevyanko, Soviet representative, spoke up as soon as MacArthur's opening address—a stirring plea for all nations to renounce their right to wage war—was finished.

Derevyanko proposed: Excluding the press; examining MacArthur's decree seven days in advance of its issuance to Japanese; internationalizing the council secretariat (U. S. Brig. Gen. Bonner F. Fellers now is secretary-general); and holding new Japanese elections if next Wednesday's balloting elects "unsuitable" Diet members.

MacArthur in his speech said it was advisable that all council meetings be open to public and press, to avoid any suspicion of "secret devices, undertakings or commitments."

At the suggestion of British Commonwealth Representative W. McMahon Ball, Russia withdrew her request to bar the press from all meetings, and the council agreed to admit newsmen to "major meetings." They will be barred from "unofficial meetings" whenever the council sees fit.

The council's next session, formally scheduled for April 17, presumably will be classified as "major." Among other business, Russia's proposal to internationalize the council secretariat will be discussed at that time.

The Soviet delegate's suggestions that a second election be considered and that council members be given advance knowledge of Allied and imperial decrees will be brought to General MacArthur's attention, Maj. Gen. William F. Marquat, MacArthur's deputy on the council, informed Derevyanko.

Through an interpreter, Derevyanko asserted that "the general situation in Japan, and the increasing activity of reactionary forces during the election campaign... gave foundation to presume that reactionary parties... may have an overwhelming majority and occupy decisive positions in the new Diet."

"It would be desirable that the supreme command... issue within a few days special public warning that coming elections would be considered as a kind of control of the capability of Japan to create a responsible and democratic government... and that the supreme command reserve the right to check up deputies elected to the Diet, and in case the majority prove unsuitable, new elections take place later."

From Emperor Hirohito's palace glared with photographers' floodlights as MacArthur, speaking distinctly above the whirling movie cameras, made his plea for peace.

The United Nations must surely fail, he said, unless nations renounce their sovereign right to wage war; and the U. N. International Police Force will be "at best but a temporary expedient." The alternative: A "totally destructive war."

Public Hearing Due On Parking Meters

A public hearing on the question of installing parking meters in the business district of Kingston will be held by the traffic committee of the Common Council on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the city hall.

The members of the committee are Alderman Frank Oulton, chairman, and Aldermen James J. Carroll and Alderman Edwin Sammons.

At the meeting of the Common Council the result of the recent poll taken by the Chamber of Commerce was referred to the committee. This poll showed that the Chamber of Commerce by a 3 to 1 ratio favored installation of the meters.

UNville in the Bronx Is Big Boom Town of 3,000

By CARL HODGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York, April 5 (AP)—Behind a high wire fence up in the Bronx, a new village has sprung to life as rapidly as a Texas oil town. Pundsters call it UNville.

Unlike other boom towns, the temporary home of the United Nations Security Council is an exclusive village, perhaps one of the most popular in the world about its population.

Veterans Can Reinstate Lapsed Insurance Policies

A new policy regarding lapsed National Service Life Insurance policies affecting thousands of combat veterans in New York state has been announced by General Omar N. Bradley, administrator of veterans affairs.

The new regulations permit veterans to reinstate lapsed N.S.L.I. policies by submitting to the Veterans Administration a statement certifying that their health is as good as at the time the insurance lapsed. In many cases a complete physical examination was formerly required.

Commenting on the liberalization policy, O. A. Gotschalk, deputy veterans administrator for New York, pointed out that men who were with front line fighting outfits were probably the largest group of veterans allowing insurance to lapse.

Price Control Penalties

Albany, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—Violations of O.P.A. orders are punishable by fines of $25 and five days in jail under a bill signed today by Governor Dewey. The law to remain in force until July 1, 1947, provides that such fines shall be levied by the locality. It specifies that local laws on the same subject shall not be superseded by the state act.

Kai-Shek Is Busy

Chungking, April 5 (AP)—The non-partisan newspaper Ta Kung Pao reported today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is busy composing a new national anthem for China.

Controversy Seems Settled

The immediate controversy over evacuation of the troops appeared reasonably well settled by Russia's promise, which the council accepted yesterday, that her forces would all be withdrawn by early next month. The case may come up again in a few days, however, but if the Red Army is out by then any council action probably would be little more than a formality.

Price Control Approved

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved a year's extension of price control, as recommended by President Truman. It defeated 13 O.P.A. Republican effort to limit O.P.A. new lease on life to nine months.

Red Cross Group Discusses Duties Of Disaster Crews

New York Representative Addresses Meeting; Tells of Regional Difficulties

Members of the disaster committees of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, with a number of the communities and the city of Kingston represented, met at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday night to discuss the duties of this important committee and make certain that the various branch committees were ready to function should need arise.

G. Wallace Codwise, chairman of the general committee, presided at the meeting. He noted that during the past couple of years there had been but two disasters of great consequence in Ulster county. Both of these at Highland. However, he said, you never can tell when disaster may come and the Red Cross may be called upon to render immediate service.

Speaker of the evening was Joseph Mastromanni of New York city, disaster specialist for the North Atlantic area. He emphasized the fact that the duty to aid in case of disaster is one of the two charter obligations imposed by Congress upon the American Red Cross.

Contrary to the idea held by many that disasters are more prevalent in other portions of the country, Mr. Mastromanni said that the North Atlantic has had more disasters than any other part of the country. Thus the two greatest fire disasters—the Hartford circus disaster and the Coconut Grove fire, occurred in this area. Since January there have been 73 disasters in the North Atlantic area, he said.

The speaker said that local Red Cross chapters are responsible for the work in their jurisdiction, in case of disaster and especially it must fall upon them to handle critical work in the early emergency stages. Such work, he observed, must be done almost immediately after the disaster happens, and for that reason local committees should be fully organized and plans made so that in case of emergency they will be prepared to answer a call at once. Where a disaster involves less than five families the responsibility for extending aid was declared to be upon the local Chapter. In handling such cases Red Cross workers were urged to take advantage of all local resources and the disaster committee should be prepared to work and cooperate with all local groups.

The speaker discussed at length the general policy of the American Red Cross with regard to disaster work, the extent to which they would extend aid and the extreme importance of the work.

Miss Dorothy Fassella of Middletown, general field representative in this area, spoke briefly of the absolute essential need of a well organized and prepared disaster committee.

Fabian Russell, chairman of the Ulster County Red Cross, Robert Rodie, vice-chairman of the disaster committee; George Pratt of Highland, and members present of the disaster committees from Highland, Saugerties, Wallkill and Woodstock were introduced. Dr. P. W. Hinchey was called upon and said that the medical committee, consisting of five volunteer physicians, was ready to help in time of need. Dr. Robert F. Moseley is chairman of the committee, with Dr. Holcomb, vice-chairman.

At the opening of the program Thursday night there was a showing of motion pictures, giving an idea of the work done by the Red Cross in time of flood and other disasters in various parts of the world; recreation and other services given the members of the armed forces in different theatres of action; also a number of battle scenes in which Red Cross workers were shown following closely upon the advance of invading troops.

Gladys Weber, in charge of the local service.

Starting Monday evening a series of addresses on the work of the service will be given over the local radio station. Monday evening the mayor will speak; Wednesday evening Dr. John F. Larkin, city health officer will talk; Thursday evening, Dr. Henry L. Bibby, member of the health board and Friday evening Miss Weber will deliver an address.

All of the city's theatres will cooperate in the observance of the week by showing three minute trailers on the screen at all performances.

The lay committee of the city's nursing service is composed of a group of volunteers whose function it is to interpret the nursing service to the public. Mayor W. F. Edelmuth has issued a proclamation designating next week as King's Your Public Nurse Week in Kingston.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
OF Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Security Council of our new peace organization has come through its first major crisis week—encouraging the belief that at last we have a league of nations which will work.

The capable handling of the dangerous Russo-Persian (Persian) situation has demonstrated that the United Nations Security Council not only is a competent intermediary but—what is more important—that the organization has the respect of the countries of the world. Indeed I think we may make it stronger and say that the authority of the United Nations is making itself felt.

And who can tell but what this auspicious beginning may lead to the great ideal proclaimed by General Douglas MacArthur yesterday when he called upon the nations to renounce their sovereign right to make war? The terrible alternative to that, as he pointed out, must be "another and totally destructive war—a war involving almost mass extermination."

Must Be Cautious

Anyway, we've made a fair start, and the rainbow of peace still hangs in the sky. However, we should recognize this for what it is—just a beginning—just a step in the right direction.

The Persian difficulty has not been settled, and we shouldn't overlook that. As a matter of fact, having studied that complicated affair at first hand in Persia, I venture the guess that it's a long way from being settled to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

That's not the main point. What has happened is that a tiny country (it happens to be Persia) has been able to get hearing of a grievance against a major power, the competence of the Council to deal with the issue has been recognized, and the dispute has been guided onto a highway which may lead to ultimate settlement or which in any event may by-pass the use of force.

Used Common Sense

One of the most gratifying aspects of the case is that while the authority and dignity of the United Nations were maintained, the Council didn't get tough in trying to force a settlement. The harsh question of sanctions didn't arise. Horse sense prevailed.

It's perhaps fortunate that this first test case should involve the rights of small nations as against those of the great powers. The fact that justice was evenly balanced between little Persia and mighty Russia will do much to encourage confidence in, and support of, the peace organization.

The position of the Russo-Persian case now is that the Security Council has shelved it temporarily while the two countries negotiate. If they don't reach a satisfactory solution the United Nations will take a hand again.

Pepper Considers Wage Bill Dead Visit The Freeman

Senate Insistence on Farm Inclusion Is Seen as Reason

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The author of the administration's minimum industrial wage bill abandoned it for dead today, because the Senate insisted on expanding it to hike the income of farmers too.

"I consider the bill completely dead," Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) told reporters before leaving the capital on a speaking trip.

Pepper is the principal author and floor manager for the legislation, which the Senate twice modified in the face of a veto threat by voting an amendment designed to raise farm prices.

The amendment was written in 46 to 38 early last night, shortly before the Senate recessed until noon today. The action clinched an earlier test vote on the same proposal last Friday, when the count was 43 to 31. All administration efforts to gain a reversal failed in the face of a well-organized coalition which included southern Democrats, Republicans and some westerners of both parties.

The farm amendment, ram-rodded by tall Senator Russell (D-Ga.), would revise the farm parity formula to include the cost of farm labor, taking in the farmer and his family as well as hired hands.

Stabilization Administrator Chester Bowles had declared repeatedly it would raise the nation's food bill by more than $4,000,000,000 a year. And President Truman sent word to the Senate he would be "compelled" to veto the bill if it came to the White House bearing the amendment.

As the measure now stands, awaiting the final Senate vote which would send it to the House, the present minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for workers covered by the federal wage-hour law would be boosted to 60 cents.

Pepper and his group originally had proposed an immediate increase to 65 cents and on up to 75 within four years.

Pepper conceded that the vote on the Russell amendment was a "clear-cut expression of the majority of the Senate." He added, however, that in his opinion the bill as amended is a "worse bill than the present law."

U. S. Policy Blasts Made by Pepper

ask each one what she is willing to give up.

All this organization is doing now is preserving the status quo," Pepper declared. "The member nations now have Russia in a hole. The other nations have their great empires. When Russia gets strong enough to assert its own right, they say it is against the rule that they must preserve the status quo."

Today there are only about 52,000 aborigines left in Australia.

House Group Cuts State Department Funds by Millions

Committee Rejects Request for $4,000,000 to Set Up Intelligence Units Abroad

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Members reported today a House Appropriations subcommittee has voted down a budget request of approximately $4,000,000 for an intelligence unit in the State Department.

Committee members also told reporters they have agreed to cut from about $19,000,000 to $10,000,000 the department's request for funds for expanding its cultural relations program from a western hemisphere and far eastern to worldwide basis.

Both actions are subject to full committee review before the bill appropriating for the fiscal year beginning July 1 comes to the House floor next Tuesday. Both likely to cause sharp fights in the committee and in the House.

Denial of funds for the intelligence unit, committee members said, resulted from an investigation by the House Military Committee, which reported a controversy between the military group and Alfred McCormack, special assistant secretary of state in charge of intelligence and research.

The military committee made what it called "representations to the State Department demanding the removal of unidentified personnel it said was 'pro-Soviet leanings.'"

McCormack, formerly connected with army intelligence, replied that the committee's suspicions and claims were unfounded and demanded a hearing for himself and a group of army officers. He said the committee declined to grant his request.

Legislation giving legal status to a worldwide cultural relations program has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. But it has been sidetracked by the Rules Committee. In the absence of specific legislation any appropriations would encounter parliamentary objections in the House. This was a factor in the appropriations Subcommittee vote to slash the fund requested.

Major Testies He Feared Acquittals In Lichfield Case

His Memorandum Quoted; Warned of 'Danger of Finding Enlisted Men Not Guilty'

London, April 5 (AP)—Maj. Richard D. Kearney, staff judge advocate of the London base area, testified before a U. S. court martial today that he once had said acquittals in the Lichfield case would be dangerous under certain conditions.

Kearney was on the stand for the second day in the trial of Staff Sgt. James M. Jones of Muskogee, Okla., second of 10 enlisted men accused of assaults and battery against U. S. Army personnel in the guardhouse at the Tenth Reinforcement depot at Lichfield.

The defense sought unsuccessfully to have Kearney declared a hostile witness. It attempted by questioning to adduce support for its contention that the justice of a London-appointed seven-man court to try the case, Kearney, as legal adviser to Col. Claude M. Thiele, London area commander, would review the findings of the court.

Capt. Earl J. Carroll, assistant prosecutor, has resigned from the case, and is reported to have charged that a deliberate attempt was being made to whitewash higher officers. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, theatre commander, has ordered an investigation of Carroll's charges on instructions from Gen. Eisenhower.

Explaining his reference to the acquittal "danger," Kearney said it was made in a memorandum last month to Col. Thiele, opposing trial of the enlisted men on charges of conspiracy, similar to those brought separately against six officers.

"In my opinion, if the accused enlisted men had been brought to trial solely on charges of conspiracy the trial would be very likely to result in acquittal," Kearney said.

He said he told Thiele there was "always the likelihood" of charges being made that the trial had been so organized as to result in acquittals.

Bubble Gum Rush Swamps Illert at Store Near School

So you think you're the only one who is having trouble getting those scarcer-than-hen's-teeth items.

Well, you're not. Take that younger generation, for instance. They may not miss those nylons or that butter you've been looking for, but they have a scarcity all their own.

They learn quickly how to get what they want, too—almost too quickly to suit one Kingston merchant who had to call the police to restore order to his usually peaceful store.

It was early yesterday that word spread through No. 7 School that their favorite product was once more available. It had been a long time since they had seen it. The supply was limited, that they all knew. And the rush and excitement at noon when classes were over was enough to make Wall street nylon crowds seem fairly tame.

But it was worth it to the youngsters who were lucky enough to get what they wanted from Fred Illert at his confectionery store on Crown street. The prize? Bubble gum, of course. What else?

City Employees Get Checks for Back Pay

Employees of the city of Kingston, who, since January 1, had not received salary increments granted them by the various boards of the Common Council, today received checks totaling $2,179.48, representing the increments for the months of January, February and March, according to City Clerk Leo P. Fennelly.

The employees affected included several who recently brought suit to compel the city to pay the increments. The action is now pending before Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergen.

The employees of the city who received their checks today included employees in the city hall, the municipal auditorium, heating plant, Board of Health, welfare department, and the police and firemen.

High Falls School Honor Roll; Report of Activities

High Falls, April 5.—The following were neither absent nor tardy in school during the month: William Ayers, Kenneth Tinkle, Harry Charles Scully, Ingeborg Lounsbury, Lois Henrietta Quick, Rosalie Gloria Schiede, Youler Louise Williams, Florence Adams, Philis Sior, Rose Adams, Florence Adams, and Philis Sior are new pupils in the school. Peter and Charles Scully are moving into Kingston this week. William McCormick has also left the school.

Recently in the primary room, two birthday celebrations occurred, Master Stephen Lipton and Miss Anne Scherrieble were the happy children so honored. They treated their classmates and the teachers with ice cream and pieces of their birthday cakes.

The children are being sent to the dentist again by the Mothers' Club.

The Mothers' Club will hold its April meeting in the library of the school next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, April 10. It is hoped that a large number will attend as plans for raising more money for the dental work will be discussed. To date approximately $300 has been spent and there is still quite a lot of work to be done.

The Eastern vacation will be from April 18 to 26 inclusive.

The posters of Richard Smith, Charles Scully and Lois Mickie were chosen to represent the intermediate room and the ones made by Richard Davenport, Jack Smith, Loretta Ayers, and Loretta Quick were sent from the grammar room.

The 4-H Club prepared and served a dinner in the library last Monday as part of its program on food preparation. Mrs. Otto Feth is the leader of this group.

Rose Adams, Florence Adams, and Philis Sior are new pupils in the school. Peter and Charles Scully are moving into Kingston this week. William McCormick has also left the school.

You and the Atom Bomb

By CLARKE BEACH
Washington, April 5 (AP)—Some prominent persons have contended that armies and navies as we knew them in World War 2 are now obsolete. The navy's role, they say, will be secondary at best if future strife should take the form of a duel with atomic missiles streaking through the stratosphere from continent to continent at speeds faster than sound.

"The development of the atomic bomb constitutes a revolution in military science more sweeping than the invention of gunpowder," says Brig. Gen. H. C. Holdridge (RET), former commandant of the adjutant general's school of the War Department.

"There will probably never again be 'battlefields' in the old sense. If we are attacked, we may never know who hit us. The attack will come suddenly, probably by sabotage. Like the victim of a free-for-all brawl, we will sit amid our ruins and demand 'Who threw that brick?'"

"Our only defense would be retaliation in kind, and immediately, and if we cannot discover who the attacker was we will be utterly helpless. The mass armies trained by the proposed program (universal military training) would be completely by-passed, as the Jap armies were in China."

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, told a Congressional Committee: "The generals and admirals . . . prove that there is no defense against the atomic bomb, and then ask for an enormous army to defend us against it."

May Decide Issue
The reply of army and navy spokesmen is that in any future war the armies and navies and not the atomic bomb may decide the issue. For one thing, they say, atomic bombs may never be used—if each side is about equally well supplied with them.

Or perhaps we would never be able to deliver our atomic bombs, says Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, director of the project which developed the bomb. The enemy might find a way of stopping them or shielding himself from them.

If we were attacked with atomic bombs, it has been frequently asserted, the enemy would still have to invade us to assure victory. A Navy would be essential to meet amphibious landing forces, the Army-Navy spokesmen say, and an Army would be needed to defeat troops landed by air or sea.

In the same way, they say, our ability to invade an attacking enemy would depend on the power of our Army, Navy and Air Force. Long after the supply of atomic bombs had been exhausted on both sides, the struggle might be carried on between ground, air and sea forces.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, said a short time ago: "With the potentials of atomic energy not yet fully known x x x it is only common, everyday horse sense for us to retain the known, proved naval advantage we so laboriously constructed until a better substitute has been demonstrated."

Gen. George C. Marshall, former chief of staff, in his biennial report in September, said: "Just as the automobile replaced the horse and made work for millions of Americans, the atomic explosives require the services of millions of men."

Not Holding to Principle
The War Department, Marshall contended, is not holding stubbornly to "the principle of a mass Army." During the past war, he recalled, fewer than 1,500,000 of the 14,000,000 men mobilized were Army or Marine infantry troops.

"The remainder of our armed forces, sea, air and ground, was largely fighting a war of machinery."

Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, speaking for the Army Air Forces, of which he is deputy commander, said:

Green Bay, Wis., April 5 (AP)—Policemen Bob King and Ray Petrosky were in municipal court yesterday when Francis X. Dugan, 37, alias Weismiller, was sentenced to state prison for one to four years for stealing an automobile.

The officers said they spotted the stolen car in front of a tavern, went in the saloon and arrested Dugan.

"How did you happen to pick Dugan out of the crowd in the tavern?" The officers were asked.

"He was the only person who didn't look up when we entered," King explained.

Marbletown Group Will Hold Tag Day For Health Week

For "Public Health Week," the Marbletown Public Health Nursing Committee is holding a Tag Day on April 13. The purpose of this Tag Day is twofold, one is to remind the public of the valuable work done by this committee and the other is to raise funds for the furtherance of this work.

Mrs. Edward Muller is chairman of Tag Day and tags and boxes have already been distributed to the various sections of the town. It is hoped that the public will respond generously to this appeal as a new venture is being undertaken by the committee at present, that of corrective treatment of the teeth of the five and six years olds of the town.

Letters have been sent to parents of the children and it is hoped that they will cooperate for it is felt it is very important to take the child at this early age to check on his six year molar and to give him the habit of regular dental inspection of his teeth.

Many fail to realize the importance of this six year molar until it is too late and the committee hopes this program will make every parent check this important tooth very carefully. Too often it is taken for a baby tooth and not cared for.

Anyone wishing further information on this program may contact Mrs. Hilda Coddington, public health nurse or Mrs. Ernest Jansen, president of the Marbletown Public Health Nursing Committee or any member of the Dental Committee, viz. Mrs. William Strong, Mrs. Ernest Howard or Mrs. Ross Osterhoudt.

During the "Public Health Week" program, April 8-13, a display of articles from the Loan Chest will be in St. Peter's Church Hall in Stone Ridge, and the public is cordially invited to inspect them and to learn what really is available. There will be some members of the committee present from 2 to 4 on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons to answer any questions you may ask.

Red Cross Group Discusses Duties Of Disaster Crews

New York Representative Addresses Meeting Tells of Regional Difficulties

Members of the disaster committees of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, with a number of the communities and the city of Kingston represented met at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday night to discuss the duties of these important committees and make certain that the various branch committees were ready to function should the need arise.

G. Wallace Coffey, chairman of the general committee, presided at the meeting. He said that during the past couple of years there had been two disasters of great consequence in Ulster county.

Both of these at Highland, however, he said, you never can tell when disaster may come and the Red Cross may be called upon to render immediate service.

Speakers of the evening were Joseph Macfarland of New York city, disaster specialist for the North Atlantic area. He emphasized the fact that the duty to aid in case of disaster is one of the charter obligations imposed by Congress upon the American Red Cross.

Contrary to the idea held by many that disasters are more prevalent in other portions of the country, Mr. Macfarland said that the North Atlantic has had more disasters than any other part of the country. Thus the two greatest fire disasters—the Hartford circus disaster and the Coronet Grove fire, occurred in this area. Since January there have been 73 disasters in the North Atlantic area, he said.

The speaker said that local Red Cross chapters are responsible for the work in their jurisdiction, in case of disaster and especially it must fall upon them to handle critical work in the early emergency stages. Such work, he observed, must be done almost immediately after the disaster happens, and for that reason local committees should be fully organized and plans made so that in case of emergency they will be prepared to answer a call at once.

Where a disaster involves less than five families the responsibility for extending aid was declared to be upon the local chapter. In handling such cases Red Cross workers were urged to take advantage of all local resources.

Disaster committees should be prepared to work and cooperate with all local groups.

The speaker discussed at length the general policy of the American Red Cross with regard to disaster work, the extent to which they would extend aid and the extreme importance of the work.

Miss Dorothy Pasarella of Middletown, general field representative in this area, spoke briefly of the absolute essential need of a well organized and prepared disaster committee.

Fabian Russell, chairman of the Ulster County Red Cross; Robert Rodie, vice-chairman of the disaster committee; George Pratt of Highland, and members present of the disaster committees from Highland, Saugerties, Wallkill and Woodstock were introduced.

P. M. Holcomb was called upon and said that the medical committee, consisting of five volunteer physicians was made up of four in time of need. Dr. Robert P. Mosley is chairman of the committee, with Dr. Holcomb, vice-chairman.

At the opening of the program Thursday night there was a showing of motion pictures, giving an idea of the work done by the Red Cross in time of flood and other disasters in various parts of the world; recreational and other services given the members of the armed forces in different theaters of action; also a number of battle scenes in which Red Cross workers were shown following closely upon the advance of invading troops.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
C.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Security Council of our new world organization has come through its first major crisis well.

encouraging the belief that at last we have a league of nations which will work.

The capable handling of the dangerous Russo-Persian (Persian situation has demonstrated that the United Nations Security Council is not only a competent intermediary but what is more important, that the organization has the respect of the countries of the world.

Indeed I think we may make a stronger and say that the Security Council is making itself felt.

And you can tell that this action is beginning may lead to the group of nations proclaimed by General Douglas MacArthur, saying that when he called upon the nations to renounce their sovereign right to make war? The terrible alternative to that, as he pointed out, must be "another and totally destructive war—a war involving almost mass extermination."

Must Be Cautious
Anyway, we've made a fair start, and the rainbow of peace still hangs in the sky. However, we should recognize this for what it is, just a beginning—just a step in the right direction.

The Persian difficulty has not been settled, and we shouldn't overlook that. As a matter of fact, having studied that complicated affair at first hand in Persia, I venture the guess that it's a long way from being settled to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

That's not the main point. What has happened is that a tiny country it happens to be Persia has been able to get hearing of a grievance against a major power, the competence of the Council to deal with the issue has been recognized, and the dispute has been guided onto a highway which may lead to ultimate settlement or which in any event may bypass the use of force.

Used Common Sense
One of the most gratifying aspects of the case is that while the authority and dignity of the United Nations were maintained, the Council didn't get tough in trying to force a settlement. The harsh question of sanctions didn't arise. Horse sense prevailed.

It's perhaps fortunate that this first test case should involve the rights of small nations as against those of the great powers. The fact that justice was evenly balanced between little Persia and mighty Russia will do much to encourage confidence in, and support of, the peace organization.

The position of the Russo-Persian case now is that the Security Council has shelved it temporarily while the two countries negotiate. If they don't reach a satisfactory solution the United Nations will take a hand again.

Pepper Considers Wage Bill Dead
Senate Insistence on Farm Inclusion Is Seen as Reason

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The author of the administration's minimum industrial wage bill abandoned it for dead today, because the Senate insisted on expanding it to hike the income of farmers too.

"I consider the bill completely dead," Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) told reporters before leaving the Capitol on a speaking trip.

Pepper is the principal author and floor manager for the legislation which the Senate twice modified in the face of a veto threat by voting an amendment designed to raise farm prices.

The amendment was written in 16 to 38 early last night, shortly before the Senate recessed until noon today. The action clinched Pepper's test vote on the same proposal last Friday, when the count was 43 to 31.

All administration efforts to gain a reversal failed in the face of a well-organized coalition which included southern Democrats, Republicans and some westerners of both parties.

The farm amendment, ramrodded by tall Senator Russell (D-Ga.), would revise the farm parity formula to include the cost of farm labor, taking in the farmer and his family as well as hired hands.

Stabilization Administrator Chester Bowles had declared recently it would raise the nation's food bill by more than $4,000,000,000 a year. And President Truman said word to the Senate he would be "compelled" to veto the bill if it came to the White House bearing the amendment.

As the measure now stands, awaiting the final Senate vote which would send it to the House, the present minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for workers covered by the federal wage-hour law would be boosted to 60 cents.

Pepper and his group originally had proposed an immediate increase to 65 cents and on up to 75 within four years.

Pepper conceded that the vote on the Russell amendment was "a clear-cut expression of the majority of the Senate." He added, however, that in his opinion the bill as amended is a "worse bill than the present law."

Removal of the Soviet forces will end the condition which Iran has contended since 1935, said the author of the bill.

Under Iranian law no such grant is supposed to be made while foreign forces are on Iranian soil.

One still troublesome situation, as diplomats associated with the United Nations see it, involves the Kurdish tribes which occupy sections not only of Iran but also of Turkey and Iraq. A movement for establishment of an independent Kurdistan is already apparent.

House Group Cuts Major Testies He State Department Feared Acquittals Funds by Millions In Lichfield Case

Committee Rejects Request for $4,000,000 to Set Up Intelligence Units Abroad

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Members reported today a House Appropriations subcommittee has voted down a budget request of approximately $4,000,000 for an intelligence unit in the State Department.

Committee members also told reporters they have agreed to cut from about $19,000,000 to $10,000,000 the department's request for funds for expanding its cultural relations program from a western hemisphere and far eastern to worldwide basis.

Both actions are subject to full committee review before the bill appropriating for the fiscal year beginning July 1 comes to the House floor next Tuesday. Both are likely to cause sharp fights in the committee and in the House.

Denial of funds for the intelligence unit, committee members said, resulted from an investigation by the House Military Committee which precipitated a controversy between the military group and Alfred McCormack, special assistant secretary of state in charge of intelligence and research.

The military committee made what it called "representations to the State Department demanding the removal from intelligence work of unidentified personnel it said has 'pro-Soviet leanings.'"

McCormack, formerly connected with army intelligence, replied that the committee's suspicions and claims were unfounded and demanded a hearing for himself and a group of army officers. He said the committee declined to grant his request.

Legislation giving legal status to a world-wide cultural relations program has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. But it has been sidetracked by the Rules Committee. In the absence of specific legislation any appropriations would encounter preliminary objections in the House. This was a factor in the Appropriations Subcommittee vote to slash the fund requested.

In the absence of specific legislation any appropriations would encounter preliminary objections in the House. This was a factor in the Appropriations Subcommittee vote to slash the fund requested.

House Group Cuts Major Testies He State Department Feared Acquittals Funds by Millions In Lichfield Case

Committee Rejects Request for $4,000,000 to Set Up Intelligence Units Abroad

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Members reported today a House Appropriations subcommittee has voted down a budget request of approximately $4,000,000 for an intelligence unit in the State Department.

Committee members also told reporters they have agreed to cut from about $19,000,000 to $10,000,000 the department's request for funds for expanding its cultural relations program from a western hemisphere and far eastern to worldwide basis.

Both actions are subject to full committee review before the bill appropriating for the fiscal year beginning July 1 comes to the House floor next Tuesday. Both are likely to cause sharp fights in the committee and in the House.

Denial of funds for the intelligence unit, committee members said, resulted from an investigation by the House Military Committee which precipitated a controversy between the military group and Alfred McCormack, special assistant secretary of state in charge of intelligence and research.

The military committee made what it called "representations to the State Department demanding the removal from intelligence work of unidentified personnel it said has 'pro-Soviet leanings.'"

McCormack, formerly connected with army intelligence, replied that the committee's suspicions and claims were unfounded and demanded a hearing for himself and a group of army officers. He said the committee declined to grant his request.

Legislation giving legal status to a world-wide cultural relations program has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. But it has been sidetracked by the Rules Committee. In the absence of specific legislation any appropriations would encounter preliminary objections in the House. This was a factor in the Appropriations Subcommittee vote to slash the fund requested.

Paris 'Bluebeard' Is Found Guilty; To Be Executed

Stunned, Killer Shouts 'Revenge' to Brother; Damages Set for Victim's Kin

By MEL MOST

Paris, April 5 (AP)—Dr. Marcel Petiot, accused of operating a "Bluebeard" murder mill within the forbidding walls of his residence on the Rue Le Sueur, was condemned to death last night after a three-week trial had ended in his conviction for more than a score of killings.

The hollow-eyed little physician was shocked into silence when the verdict was read, but within a few minutes recovered sufficiently to shout to his brother, Maurice, in the crowded Palais De Justice: "I must be avenged."

Petiot, a legendary figure in Paris and described by the prosecution as "the Monster of the Rue Le Sueur," said he would appeal.

After passing the death sentence, the court continued in session and early today awarded civil damages of 2,045,000 francs (about $17,000) to the families of Petiot's victims. The awards ranged from one franc to 880,000.

The 55-year-old, swarthy physician, in whose home Police found the remains of a number of expertly dismembered bodies, had maintained he was a leader in the Resistance movement and that all of those killed were collaborators and "Gestapo decoys."

The prosecution charged that he operated a murder-for-profit scheme, collecting money from at least 27 victims whom he promised to smuggle out of Nazi-occupied France.

The verdict was returned shortly before midnight by a secret vote of 12 jurors and three judges who deliberated two hours and 25 minutes.

Legion Auxiliary to Hold Events in Woodstock

Woodstock, April 5—An Easter holiday and book sale will be held at the Dairyale store Saturday, April 15, at 11 a. m., it was decided at a meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary in Legion headquarters.

It was also decided to hold a cafeteria supper at the Legion building Saturday, June 1, at 5:30. In order to complete the kitchen equipment of the building each member has been requested to bring a dish towel with him to the meetings. A food sale has also been planned to raise money for kitchen utensils.

After the recent meeting a social hour was held. The refreshments consisted of a large birthday cake and ice cream.

At a Legion dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, last Saturday night in honor of State Commander Miles Kennedy and Mrs. H. Burdett, local people who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kueschback, Mr. and Mrs. William Frost, George Herman, David Millholland, William Wesley O'Brian and Mrs. Mitze Engels.

Yale and Towne Strike Ends; One Of Nation's Longest

by representatives of the company, union and the conciliators.

Feelings Were Intense

The strike was marked by the intensity of the feelings it aroused. Shortly before the negotiations opened last week a delegation of Stamford A.F.L. and C.I.O. unionists went to Washington and told Department of Labor officials the government might have to take over the plant to prevent "bloodshed."

State police and pickets clashed at factory gates on several occasions, the most recent two weeks ago when 24 arrests were made.

A general work stoppage in Stamford industry occurred January 2 when a crowd estimated at 10,000 by police staged a mid-town demonstration in support of the strikers.

As they emerged from the New York conference, spokesmen for both company and union expressed gratification at the end of the strike.

Jerome Y. Sturm, union attorney, said: "The membership of the union will certainly agree that a great victory has been won. I believe that tomorrow should be designated as V-Y Day in Stamford—it certainly will be remembered. This has been one of the longest and biggest strikes since V-J Day."

From Weldon P. Monson, company industrial relations attorney, came this statement: "We are happy the strike is over and we will look forward to a new era of production."

Proclamation

Public Health Nurse Mayor W. F. Edelmuth today issued the following proclamation designating next week as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week in the city:

WHEREAS the health of all its citizens is a major responsibility of the city of Kingston, and WHEREAS Kingston must continue to move forward on all health fronts and wage an all-out fight against sickness that strikes at home and family, and

WHEREAS the public health nurses in Kingston from the health department, schools and industries, are essential to progress toward this goal, and

WHEREAS The National Organization for Public Health Nursing and the U. S. Public Health Service have designated April 7-13 as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week, so that people everywhere may come to learn more about public health nursing services, and

WHEREAS many community groups in Kingston are cooperating in the nation-wide plans for this event,

THEREFORE, I, W. F. Edelmuth, Mayor of Kingston, do hereby proclaim April 7-13 as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week, and do hereby urge all people to observe it with interest and in the quest for better health.

Under my hand and seal, in Kingston this fourth day of April in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred Forty-Six, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and seventh.

Kiwanians Hear Historian Talk on State's Old Houses

Dr. Albert B. Corey, director of the division of archives and history, State Department of Education, who was introduced by his old friend, Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw, was an interesting speaker on the program hour of Kiwanis Thursday.

Dr. Corey talked about the historical houses of New York state, illustrating his talk with numerous handsome illuminated photographs of houses and monuments he was discussing.

It was noted that from time to time many of the historic landmarks had been taken over or given to the state. In April, 1944, 27 of these properties were placed under the care of the Education Department, while five others still remain in charge of the Conservation Department.

The speaker noted that an idea of the age of many of the early houses can be obtained by noting the number and location of chimneys. As a rule the pre-Revolutionary houses were built with one large central chimney. Later houses often had two chimneys and still later as many as four chimneys will be found.

Among houses and monuments shown by Dr. Corey were: the Phillips Manor House at Yonkers, built about 1680. One of the fine old colonial manor houses. The Phillips family lost the property at the time of the Revolution, due to the fact that they espoused the Tory side. It has the finest collection in the country of portraits of the presidents, up to Calvin Coolidge.

The Fort Crailo house at Rensselaer, place where Yankee Doodle was written. The characteristic pre-Revolutionary house of Sir William Johnston at Johnstown, erected in 1762. It contains the original Masonic furniture of Masonic Lodge No. 4, instituted by Sir William. Another house built by Sir William Johnston at Amsterdam in 1754, which although pre-Revolutionary has four chimneys. The house at Mt. MacGregor in which General Grant spent the last weeks of his life. The Oriskany battle monument, marking the battle which General Herkimer was fatally wounded. The Bennington monument, marking the Battle of Bennington which, it was stated, actually was fought on New York state soil. Washington's headquarters and General Knox's headquarters at Newburgh. The Tompkins Hill monument, marking the spot where the Army was disbanded and where General Washington took farewell of his troops.

Discussing briefly the old Senate House at Kingston Dr. Corey said that plans are ready for pretty complete reconstruction as soon as materials are available.

Kiwanis unanimously approved the Mahoney-Curto bill providing for a standard work week for uniformed firemen and asked Governor Dewey to sign the bill.

Next Thursday Kiwanians will not be able to have their luncheon at the hotel due to alterations in the kitchen, but they will meet at 12:45 for the regular meeting.

Mr. Gross stated that the dining rooms would be closed April 8 while new equipment is being installed in the kitchen. Equipment will be of stainless steel. He hopes to be able to resume service of meals the following week.

New Jersey Begins Operation of Nine Important Plants

Public Service Gets Works Under New State Law; Employees Give Full Support

Newark, N. J., April 5 (AP)—The state of New Jersey seized and began immediate operation today on the nine gas works of the huge Public Service Electric & Gas Co. at the very hour set by six independent unions for a statewide strike.

The 1,200 workers involved remained at their posts, assuring an uninterrupted flow of gas for heating and cooking to three-fourths of New Jersey's more than 4,000,000 residents.

Gov. Walter E. Edge last night signed the order authorizing the seizure and operation of the gas works under a nine-day-old state utility strike law. He empowered State Labor Commissioner Harry C. Harper to act as administrator of the plants "in order that the manufacturer of gas may continue and that the public interest, health and welfare shall not be interfered with."

This first test of the new state law, which gives the governor power to take over public utilities as a last resort in labor disputes, came at 12:01 a. m. today when state troopers appeared at the scattered plants and read the proclamation to company and union officials. The order was served in Newark on E. A. Lydecker, a public service vice-president.

Cooperation Ordered

Union leaders, who previously had announced that workers would stay at their jobs if the state took over in the event negotiations over wage increase demands collapsed, told their members to give 100 per cent cooperation to Harper.

"After 12:01 a. m. Harry Harper will be your new boss," John Landrigan, counsel for the Camden and Glassboro unions, told a union meeting. "There will be no interruption of service, nor will any of you lose a cent of pay."

Under terms of the proclamation, Harper can order all personnel, including management to continue at their tasks at the same pay and working conditions and has power to appoint assistants to aid him in administration of company operations until such time as the wage dispute was settled.

Plants Taken Over

Company plant in Glassboro, Central Gas Works in Raritan Township, and Trenton Gas Works.

The wage dispute began several weeks ago with union demands for a 20 per cent wage increase. The final union decision to strike came yesterday when a conference ended after the company rejected a 15 per cent wage increase demand. The utility had offered 12 1/2 per cent increase.

Only the Jersey City Gas Works of the Public Service Company is unaffected by the seizure order. Employees there are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

press rooms—"salon de presse"—and the official United Nations Library.

Has Only 41 Books

So far the library includes only 41 books, most of them almanacs and foreign language dictionaries. Eventually it probably will inherit the million-dollar League of Nations collection.

Across the quadrangle are the cafeteria and a fourth building which is headquarters for the Marine guards.

The cafeteria is UNville democracy at its best. Diplomats and stenographers and handymen stand side by side in line for food and everyone totes his own tray. Like the three bars—one for delegates, one for reporters and a third for everybody else—and the cigar stand, the cafeteria is a concession, leased by UN to an operating company. It is equipped to feed 10,000 a day. Prices are moderate.

UNville's police chief is a stocky, ruddy-checked one-time Connecticut state trooper named Frank Begley. His 35 UN security police plainclothesmen are backed up by 75 veteran Marines and 300 New York city patrolmen, who guard the fence from the outside.

Begley's UN cops have kept UNville safe and sane. If a questionable character slips through, though, they have but two choices: Throw him back into The Bronx or call in the city police. UNville has no jail.

High Falls School Honor Roll; Report of Activities

High Falls, April 5.—The following pupils were absent nor tardy during the month: Wilbur Schlegel, Kenneth Tinkle, Harry Charles Scully, Ingeborg Lounsbury, Lois Bennett, Quick, Rosalie Schlegel, Youler Williams, Florence Williams, Philis Sior, Robert Williams, Margaret Karl, Beverly Nicholas, Loretta Quick, George Campbell, Edgar Herbert Ayers and Jack Davenport had the most tardies, and the greatest tardiness was by the seventh grade.

The social studies contest in the school was won by Loretta Ayers and Youler Schlegel a very close second.

The fourth grade has chosen for its motto "Onward We Strive." In the intermediate room the pupils are learning the songs of the Negro including the Negro national anthem.

The school entered the town contest for the Eastern Star contest for posters advertising the musical show in Stone Ridge.

The posters of Richard Smith, Charles Scully and Lois Mickle were chosen to represent the intermediate room and the ones made by Richard Davenport, Jack Smith, Loretta Ayers, and Loretta Quick were sent from the grammar room.

The 4-H Club prepared and served a dinner in the library last Monday as part of its program on food preparation. Mrs. Otto Fetz is the leader of this group.

Rose Adams, Florence Adams, and Philis Sior are new pupils in the school. Peter and Charles Scully are moving into Kingston this week. William McCormick has also left the school.

Recently in the primary room, two birthday celebrations occurred. Master Stephen Lipton and Miss Anne Scherrieble were the happy children so honored. They treated their classmates and the teachers with ice cream and pieces of their birthday cakes.

The children are being sent to the dentist again by the Mothers Club.

The Mothers' Club will hold its April meeting in the library of the school next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, April 10. It is hoped that a large number will attend as plans for raising more money for the dental work will be discussed. To date approximately $300 has been spent and there is still quite a lot of work to be done.

The Eastern vacation will be from April 18 to 26 inclusive.

Marbletown Group Will Hold Tag Day For Health Week

For "Public Health Week," the Marbletown Public Health Nursing Committee is holding a Tag Day on April 13. The purpose of this Tag Day is twofold, one is to remind the public of the valuable work done by this committee and the other is to raise funds for the furtherance of this work.

Mrs. Edward Muller is chairman of Tag Day and tags and boxes have already been distributed to the various sections of the town. It is hoped that the public will respond generously to this appeal as a new venture is being undertaken by the committee at present, that of corrective treatment of the teeth of the five and six year olds of the town.

Letters have been sent to parents of the children and it is hoped that they will cooperate for it is felt it is very important to take the child at this early age to check on his six year molar and to give him the habit of regular dental inspection of his teeth.

Many fail to realize the importance of this six year molar until it is too late and the committee hopes this program will make every parent check this important tooth very carefully. Too often it is taken for a baby tooth and not cared for.

Anyone wishing further information on this program may contact Mrs. Hilda Coddington, public health nurse or Mrs. Ernest Jensen, president of the Marbletown Public Health Nursing Committee or any member of the Dental Committee: viz, Mrs. William Strong, Mrs. Ernest Howard or Mrs. Ross Osterhout.

During the "Public Health Week" program, April 8-13, a display of articles from the Loan Chest will be in St. Peter's Church Hall in Stone Ridge, and the public is cordially invited to inspect them and to learn what really is available. There will be some members of the committee present from 2 to 4 on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons to answer any questions you may ask.

You and the Atom Bomb

By CLARKE BEACH

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Some prominent persons have contended that armies and navies as we knew them in World War 2 are now obsolete. The navy's role, they say, will be secondary at best if future strife should take the form of a duel with atomic missiles streaking through the stratosphere from continent to continent at speeds faster than sound.

"The development of the atomic bomb constitutes a revolution in military science more sweeping than the invention of gunpowder," says Brig. Gen. H. C. Holdridge (RET), former commandant of the adjutant general's school of the War Department.

"There will probably never again be 'battlefields' in the old sense. If we are attacked, we may never know who hit us. The attack will come suddenly, probably by sabotage. Like the victim of a free-for-all brawl, we will sit amid our ruins and demand 'Who threw that brick?'"

"Our only defense would be retaliation in kind, and immediately, and if we cannot discover who the attacker was we will be utterly helpless. The mass armies trained by the proposed program (universal military training) would be completely by-passed, as the Jap armies were in China."

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, told a Congressional Committee: "The generals and admirals . . . prove that there is no defense against the atomic bomb, and then ask for an enormous army to defend us against it."

May Decide Issue
The reply of army and navy spokesmen is that in any future war the armies and navies and not the atomic bomb may decide the issue. For one thing, they say, atomic bombs may never be used.

Or perhaps we would never be able to deliver our atomic bombs, says Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, director of the project which developed the bomb. The enemy might find a way of stopping them or shielding himself from them.

If we were attacked with atomic bombs it has been frequently asserted, the enemy would still have to invade us to assure victory. A Navy would be essential to meet amphibious landing forces, the Army-Navy spokesmen say, and an Army would be needed to defeat troops landed by air or sea.

In the same way, they say, our ability to invade an attacking enemy would depend on the power of our Army, Navy and Air Force. Long after the supply of atomic bombs had been exhausted on both sides, the struggle might be carried on between ground, air and sea forces.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, said a short time ago:

"With the potentials of atomic energy not yet fully known x x x it is only common, everyday horse sense for us to retain the known, proved naval advantage we so laboriously constructed until a better substitute has been demonstrated."

Gen. George C. Marshall, former chief of staff, in his biennial report in September, said: "Just as the automobile replaced the horse and made work for millions of Americans, the atomic explosives require the services of millions of men."

Not Holding to Principle

The War Department, Marshall contended, is not holding stubbornly to "the principle of a mass Army." During the past war, he recalled, fewer than 1,500,000 of the 14,000,000 men mobilized were Army or Marine infantry troops. "The remainder of our armed forces, sea, air and ground, was largely fighting a war of machinery."

Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, speaking for the Army Air Forces, of which he is deputy commander,

Simple Solution

Green Bay, Wis., April 5 (AP)—Policemen Bob King and Ray Petrosky were in municipal court yesterday when Francis X. Dugan, 37, alias Weissmiller, was sentenced to state prison for one to four years for stealing an automobile.

The officers said they spotted the stolen car in front of a tavern, went in the saloon and arrested Dugan.

"How did you happen to pick Dugan out of the crowd in the tavern?" The officers were asked.

"He was the only person who didn't look up when we entered," King explained.

The first postage stamp of Great Britain was made in 1840 and bore a portrait of young Queen Victoria.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Preparedness

Olympia, Wash., April 5 (AP)—Washington's dampish spring weather gained a clear-cut victory here when one store placed this sign in a window display of raincoats: "Get ready for Easter."

Feud

Thermopolis, Wyo., April 5 (AP)—Postmaster Harley Murphy, who last year claimed to be champion Wyoming spinach grower with an eight-foot six-inch plant, says he expects to grow spinach 10 feet tall this season.

Murphy's crown rests uneasily, however, with the dissenting voice of another spinach grower, Bert

Cover, also of Thermopolis, who reckons he can be champ. Furthermore, Cover insists: "I raised a nine-foot plant last year but threw it away before Murphy claimed the crown. He won on a technicality."

Detour to Luck

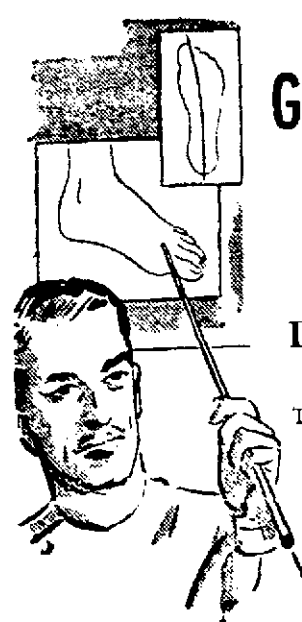

Greeley, Colo., April 5 (AP)—Swinging his car into an alley to avoid going down a street where a black cat had just crossed, superstitious Bert Reynolds, 22, wound up in an irrigation ditch minus his bumper, grill and fog light, plus a $25 repair bill.

Good Yield

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—Nick Selmos' personal Red Cross day yesterday was even more successful than on April 4, 1945.

The 390.23 he took in at his restaurant for the Red Cross compared to last year's donation of $226.73.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Now You Can Spray Away Cucumber Seeds

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

SCIENCE is rapidly displacing the "green thumb" in gardening. Now, for example, you can grow seedless cucumbers merely by spraying them. It's as simple as that.

By spraying cucumber plants with a hormone spray now available you can insure "set" of the first flowers which usually fall off during early spring.

The hormone spray causes the cucumber plants to produce fruits almost devoid of seeds, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

It also causes the fruits to ripen weeks earlier than normal, and increases the yield and size of fruits. It also pollinates self sterile plants.

Cucumbers without seed are not only of better quality, but they will remain in sound condition much longer.

If cucumber vines in last year's vegetable garden became diseased it will be best this year to plant in a different section of the garden and select disease-resistant varieties.

The Chinese variety is extremely disease-resistant. It is claimed, in fact, that this variety is free of both blight and fungus diseases.

Longfellow is another variety that is a vigorous grower and is less subject to disease than many other varieties.

Long Green also is unusually hardy and disease-resistant.

HIGHLAND

Highland, April 4—Dr. and Mrs. Victor P. Salvatore left Wednesday for a week spent at Atlantic City.

Mrs. George DuBois entertained the Monday afternoon Bridge Club at her home on White street. The club will not meet on the coming Monday.

Miss Margery Mellor of the Albany Hospital spent Saturday to Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mellor.

Former staff sergeant Frank Kozlowski who served three years in Africa and India has been given his discharge and returned home.

Mrs. Louise Roberts is a patient in St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Lawson Upright, Miss Joyce Upright and Thomas Upright with Miss Jean Denton of Gardiner were Monday evening guests of Mrs. W. J. Upright.

Miss Katherine Richards of Washington is visiting in town as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thorne.

Attending the concert of the Singers' Club, Poughkeepsie, Friday night and taking part were Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. Harry Thorne who are members, and their husbands. They with Miss Katherine Richards were also guests at the reception later at the Tennis Club. Others who were present at the concert were Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, Mrs. Myron Hazen, Mrs. William Lais, Mrs. Oliver Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Bruff Olin, the Misses Rose Symes, Luella Ose, Mrs. Herbert Greenland, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hasbrouck, and Joan Hasbrouck.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Terpening and Mrs. Theodore Terpening have moved from the apartment in the Louis Smith house, Milton road, to the upper apartment in the A. Jerome Pratt house on the North road.

Miss Evelyn Capillano, a student at Cobleskill, spent the week-end at her home here. Her mother, Albert Roberts, game warden, was at the town clerk's office Monday where he tagged 17 beaver hides.

Dr. Peter Wyant, former pastor of the Methodist Church, now of Pine Bush was in town Monday and called on Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilcox.

Mrs. W. B. Taber will be hostess to the Friday luncheon and bridge club.

Game Warden Albert Roberts was called to New Paltz Monday when a deer was struck by the Wallkill Valley train. The injured animal was brought here but its wounds were serious; it was killed.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 5, 1946

THE BRIDGE BILL

Governor Dewey has until April 26 to act on the Wicks-Hatfield Bill, which authorizes the construction of a bridge across the Hudson River between Kingston and Rhinecliff. The bill was passed by both houses of the Legislature within ten days of the closing sessions and automatically became one of the thirty-days' bills. If the bill is not acted upon by the Governor within the thirty days it becomes a dead measure.

Senator Wicks' office is preparing a strong memorandum to present to the Governor stressing the necessity of this bridge as a part of the improved highway program for the state. The finances in connection with the erection of the bridge as part of the special motor vehicle tax will be outlined in the memorandum.

A record number of communications, urging the signing of the bill, has been received by the Governor. There is still time for individuals and organizations to send theirs to the Chief Executive.

A rocket has soared 43 1/2 miles into space. Presumably looking for houses.

TRAIN SERVICES

The railroad service poll being taken by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce to ascertain the desired express passenger service between Kingston and New York City and Kingston and Albany on the West Shore Railroad is especially timely since new timetables will be issued by the railroads at the end of this month when daylight saving time goes into effect. The summer train schedule is also planned at this time.

With the renewal of the ferry service between Kingston and Rhinecliff scheduled this month it is equally important at this time that a schedule be worked out between the ferry authorities and the New York Central. It would be a great convenience to the public.

The invention most needed, at least by some people, is a dictionary in which a person can find words without knowing how they are spell.

CHANGING TIMES

"Look down, look down that lonesome road, before you travel on," says a sad old American song that is seldom heard nowadays. And it is good advice nowadays in public matters, especially in international affairs. For today we have what in many ways is virtually a new and different world from the one with which we are familiar. It is now literally, in the famous words of Wendell Willkie, "One World." And yet it is different in many ways from the world as he knew it, and today seems almost visibly changing before our eyes.

The intelligent American may well turn back occasionally for a glimpse of the familiar scene, to note and mark in his mind the turning points, the old paths and roads, the loved places and customs that have grown so familiar that they are a part of him. For mentally and spiritually, at least, he may never travel that road again. He is precipitated so quickly into new ways and procedures that it is hard to get his bearings. The recent wars have shaken up his world, and it will take time to shake him down again into what may seem almost a new environment, and certainly a new age.

It would do no harm for nations, like men, to have a little less ego in their cosmos.

SOUND RACE RELATIONS

Two Negro scholars, who are authorities in their fields, are on a lecture tour to white colleges and schools as part of the American Friends Service Committee's race relations work. The visiting professors are Dr. Ira Reid, head of Atlanta University's sociology department, and Dr. Milton S. J. Wright, political science professor at Wilberforce University in Ohio, the oldest Negro college in the country.

THE GENTLE ART OF GIVING

Every morning's mail brings a huge appeal for charitable contributions. All the appeals are urgent. Everything is urgent these days. Nothing can wait for tomorrow. The appeals are usually printed on expensive paper, carefully designed, well-written and represent costly effort. Somebody gets employment doing that. They come from organizations seeking aid for the sick, the hungry, the displaced, the wounded, the diseased, the distressed; but they also come from political movements, musical organizations, art museums, educational activities, aid to every country on earth, pro-this, anti-that. It is a fierce competition.

There is only so much money to give, even if one stretches the dollar further than seems possible. What with high taxes and the high cost of living, it becomes almost impossible to save and even if one does charity busily as an income tax deduction, it is increasingly difficult to give a little to good works and a great deal to good works are for the salvation of one's soul.

I must say that I am not influenced by fancy printing. If a charitable organization has that much to spend on printing, it has too much cash on hand to suit me. Also drives me home, I never give during a drive. I send my charitable checks irrespective of drives, because I hate to be driven or even enjoyed. I like to give for the joy of giving, not because someone has embarrassed me in public.

Furthermore, I often check on the finances of a charity and if the reserves are large, I do not give. Charities do not need reserves. I say that categorically and if any one disagrees with me, let him give accordingly.

Some of the very urgent appeals are not urgent at all. What they say must be done this year can just as well be done another year. Except for hospitals, I will not contribute to any building fund. That can wait. In fact, no money raised for buildings is likely to be spent this year. Why not collect the money when building materials become available for luxuries? Today, we need that material for homes. I also will not contribute to any luxury funds, like fancy music or fancy art. All that can wait.

The human race is faced by famine and its consequences. That comes first. Food for the starving, milk and oranges for babies and mothers—that comes first. Therefore, funds designed to save life, to help the distressed, to care for the hungry, to house the homeless, to clothe the dispossessed, hold a high priority on my charity. Before I can contribute to anything fancy, I want to make sure that I have given to calories and vitamins.

Next on my list is health. And I am very choosy about that. Hospitals should be first on this list because there is in this country and in all the world a shortage of hospitals and hospital beds and clinical facilities and there is never enough money for medical research.

The competition for the dollar among special health agencies is most unfortunate. Some have too much money—more than they can spend. Others have too little. Certainly, heart illnesses and cancer research should be way up on my list, but it would be preferable if all these health organizations pooled their resources and their money-raising efforts. It is a pity that the most important appeals in the health field receive so little while the better advertised and publicized receive too much. Nevertheless, this is truly an urgent field for good works.

I was once showing Charles A. Beard the buildings of the University of Nanking and I could see that he was not impressed by their magnificence. He asked what were the salaries of the teachers. When he was told, he said, "Millions for bricks, few dollars for brains." So it is with all these appeals for buildings. With 20,000,000 dying from starvation in Europe, how can anyone think of spending his surplus on stone? When millions are without bread, who can care about mausoleums of marble?

Only that is urgent which cannot be postponed. Hunger and death stalk the world, taking their victims of the horrors of an era of man's inhumanity to man.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

ARTHRITIS

It is fifty years since Roentgen accidentally discovered X-rays. While it was felt that being able to see the condition of the bones inside the body was of some value, few physicians had any idea that these same X-rays would have so many uses as the years passed.

What do we find today?
Together with surgery, the X-rays and radium form our greatest defense and offense against cancer. It is the combination treatment by X-rays and radium that enables physicians to reach and cure cancer in parts that the knife cannot reach.

The X-ray is now the skin specialist's greatest aid, not only in dangerous diseases such as cancer but also in that troublesome and distressing ailment acne (pimples).

The X-ray is now a help to the ear, nose and throat specialist in the treatment of sinus disease and removal of masses of soft tissue that grow near or at the opening of the eustachian tube carrying air from throat to inner side of ear drum.

That the X-ray would be of help in that oldest of diseases, rheumatism, would be hard to imagine; Dr. J. Borak and H. K. Taylor, in Radiology state that during the past two years they have treated 66 patients with advanced rheumatoid arthritis, the common form of arthritis in which the ends of the bone have grown some extra bone (hypertrophic arthritis) and lost some (osteoporosis). The X-ray treatment was given to these 66 patients who had been treated by the usual methods—gold, vaccines, heat, electricity, surgery—without success. These patients were treated according to their symptoms and what the X-ray films revealed. The involvement was classified as stage one, two or three and the amount of X-ray treatment given depended upon the stage of the disease process in any one place. Of the 66 patients they selected 10 for critical study with 53 diseased joints among the 10. Good results were obtained in most cases.

The X-ray treatment removed swelling, relieved pain and increased the amount of movement in the joint.

The statement of Mr. Bernard Baruch should jar us wide awake on the subject of what time it is in this Republic of United States of America, and how much further we have to go unless we stop some trends right now, and back away from the precipice.

Until recently Baruch has always been an optimist about the United States—almost a gay optimist. His own life experience should have made him pessimistic. His is the typical success story of this Republic as we knew it until the statistics and pseudo-reformers got hold of it. He began life as a poor boy, a member of a community that too often has complained of discrimination against its members and yet his own success in material matters and social standing show that there is either no discrimination of this sort, or none that cannot be overcome to the strengthening and greater success of the individual. Young Baruch was a boxer who had the capacity to make friends with important and successful friends among the friends of boxing. He made himself as educated as they. When his active boxing days were over, he established a health and athletic institution, not an unusual sequence. His personality and penchant for listening and making the right response made customers of his former fans, and his sympathy and his wisdom kept them about him. Soon he was able to make most lucrative investments and business connections through the ups and downs of these men gladly gave him in return for his friendship. Baruch, the Health Institute manager, became Baruch the financier. In his earlier careers, Baruch had met many men influential in politics and had numbered among them even a few statesmen. When Woodrow Wilson faced the dilemma of neutrality or intervention in the first British-German war, and his choice involved the risk of an American financial panic, because the American capitalist structure had been built upon British Imperial prestige throughout the world, Bernard M. Baruch was called upon as advisor to the President of the United States.

Since that time Bernard M. Baruch has consistently and through administrations both Democratic and Republican, been one of the directors of American and world fate. His personal fortune has increased by leaps and bounds and his philanthropies have kept pace. He has been of aid to more than one top statesman who was better at directing the destinies of the nation than taking care of his own estate. He couldn't help but know the great opportunities for money-making in shifting exchange values of the money of various countries, and much of his great earnings are rumored, at least, to have come from good use of such anticipations. Winston Churchill early learned the value of Bernard M. Baruch, both in matters personal and in matters of state. Baruch remains today Churchill's Number One American friend.

Yet this outstanding optimistic American now says, "go easy on foreign loans." He now says, "forbid strikes for a year." He now says, "stop increasing money"—which would include stopping printing bonds, which pass for money, to cover deficit financing by the treasury. He says, "stop bunting the public by increasing wages while pretending not to increase prices." He says, "let lower the cost of living."

Barney Baruch is not so easily optimistic any longer that everything is going to come out beautifully while we finance foreign empires and send expedition after expedition abroad and print paper that passes for money under the pretense that we are going to pay ourselves back.

Organized labor won't like Barney Baruch's suggestion to arbitrarily stop strikes—that is, labor chiefs won't like it. I suppose many a common working man who never again wants to go down like that, and there's another and final suggestion made by the old elder statesman who rose from the rinks that, I think, none of us like. It is his suggestion for what he calls a "High Court of Commerce" which is apparently intended to have the powers of a supreme economic council. If it is to be just a court of equity, that is one thing. If Mr. Baruch really means a Supreme Economic Council which shall dictate wages, prices, production and distribution, then we see how near we are in the mind of this typical product of America to free enterprise, to the complete regimentation which is properly called statism. Russia is the supreme example of the economic directed by a supreme economic council. Mr. Baruch knows this. Perhaps he is muddled, now that things he so largely directed have come out so badly. Perhaps he is trying to shock us into seeing how near we are to the precipice.

It is up to us to change our course. Mr. Baruch, full of years and honor and with a record which we can be proud of, has run his course. Copyright 1946, John F. Dille Co.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The firm of James Millard & Son, Ford dealers for this territory in the years before World War 2, combined a Ford motor car show and inspection of the new show rooms in the Millard building, opposite the Central Post Office, in March, 1927.

The Millard firm was born in 1865 at the same location where a foundry business was established. Later the original frame structure was destroyed by fire and in 1885 a brick building was erected on the Dederick street end of the lot.

On the Grand street side of the lot stood for years the Millard residence property, which was later torn down as the business continued to expand.

In 1925 the present modern building, which is now leased as an A. & P. Super Market, while the garage in the rear is used for storage purposes and for a vocational school by the education department of the city, was erected.

When the new modern automobile show rooms were first used, the Chamber of Commerce held its annual dinner meeting there.

Turning for a minute to amateur theatricals, the Service Club of the Fair Street Reformed Church, on March 2, 1927, presented the play, "Anne What's-Her-Name."

In the cast were John Mack, George Muller, Cora Stark, Ruth Kingsley, Doris Lamson, Hilda Johnson, Sutherland Sears, Elmer Fisher, Katherine Fellows, Marion Schoonmaker, Walter Hasbrouck, John Blakely, Ruth Wood, Victor DeMare and Dorothy Schepmoes.

Judge James Jenkins died in his home on Johnston avenue on March 18, 1927. As a young man he attended the New Paltz Normal School, and after his graduation taught school for a while at Creek Locks.

Later he decided to take up the study of law and attended and graduated from the Cornell Law School.

Judge Jenkins began his career as a lawyer in the offices of Attorney John N. Vanderlyn in New Paltz, and later in the offices of William Lounsbury in this city, with whom he formed a partnership for the practice of law.

This partnership continued for several years until Judge Jenkins branched out in business for himself, and opened an office on John street.

Judge Jenkins came to Kingston in 1896, and for years he was active in the ranks of the Democratic party, and served at one time as county chairman.

At the death of County Judge Charles F. Cantine in 1912, Judge Jenkins was appointed to fill the unexpired term, and at the expiration of the term he was elected county judge on the Democratic ticket, serving the full term, which expired on January 1, 1919.

During the administration of Morris Block as mayor of the city, Judge Jenkins was appointed to serve as corporation counsel to fill the unexpired term of Corporation Counsel William D. Brinkner who died while holding office.

During the years that Judge Jenkins was active he was widely and favorably known throughout Ulster county. He loved horseback riding and he was a familiar figure on horseback in all of the big parades that were held in the city during the years he was active.

True Answer to U.N. Diplomatic Maneuvering Will Come When Iran Acts on Oil Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 5 — Diplomacy has many means of saving face for governments that get into embarrassing positions but no better example of its operations has been mentioned than the way Great Britain, the United States and Russia extricated themselves from the Iran dilemma.

On the surface it looks as if the United Nations Organization won a victory over Russia. But it could also turn out that Russia outsmarted the other powers. The answer will come only when it is known what the government of Iran does about oil wanted by the Soviet Union and about the setting up of an autonomous republic friendly to Russia in the northern part of Iran.

So far as the record of words is concerned, Russia hasn't altered her position or promises or conceded that she violated any. The assumption that the Soviet was maintaining troops in Iran and Russia didn't have the situation well in hand when she announced that she had an "understanding" with Iran and that there was no use bringing the matter to the attention of the Security Council.

Russia wanted until April 19 before discussing the Iran affair. A settlement was expected to be reached by the end of the month, but when the Moscow government not officially announced that there wasn't the slightest cooperation between the Russian and Iranian troops and the matter of oil concessions, the U.N.O. promptly accepts the explanation and everybody seems to be happy.

The Russians never admitted before that there was any connection. All they said and all they have now admitted is that the demands for oil and the negotiations for the withdrawal of the troops happened to coincide and were carried on in a parallel manner. The British and American observers can read into this all they like but the Russians innocently insist such suspicions are unfounded.

The truth is the Iranian government has a premier who is friendly to Russia and he isn't likely to tell what the Russians said or what pressure they put on his government.

Maybe the U.N.O. Security Council decided that too much fuss had been raised about the affair anyway and accepted the easiest way out. Anyway Russia has obtained her postponement beyond April 19, succeeding by an adroitly phrased note in getting the matter off the Security Council table. And still Moscow has plenty of time to "negotiate" for oil and other matters with Iran. The U.N.O. may have won a moral victory, but Russia may turn out to have gotten what she wanted in Iran.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

BABSON DISCUSSES UTILITIES

New York City, April 5—I dislike to see any more electric utilities taken over by the public. The utilities did well during the War and are now entitled to show what they can do in times of peace. Therefore, I wish it strictly understood that this week's column is not an appeal for public ownership. Yet, I do believe that investors in public utilities are entitled to know the truth.

Rate Comparisons

Up to now, public utilities have been regulated only by municipal authorities and state commissions who had understood local needs and conditions. In most cases they have been fair to the public, to the employees, and to the shareholders. Recently, however, the Federal Power Commission has come into the picture in a most threatening manner. The original idea was for this Commission to function only in connection with interstate problems; but current interpretations of the law enable it to interfere with most all electric utilities.

The Federal Power Commission is not content to render decisions based upon precedent. Shooting is not the only method of killing a man. A sign of death may be brought about by starvation, by disease, or even by fear. The utilities claim that the Federal Power Commission is using this latter method in bringing about public ownership through unfair propaganda and an attempt to ruin the reputation of utility executives. Whether we like it or not, this program is destined to bring about government ownership of utilities. This will probably be through large Federal Authorities, with the country divided into districts corresponding with the Federal Reserve Boards.

Depreciation Policies

A Federal Power Commission's famous demands that all depreciation charges, in excess of the most of replacements and statutory deductions, shall be deducted from the appraisal price when and if the necessary is taken over by the public. This means that the public is already engaged in buying in on properties on the installment plan.

The Commission claims that a utility has only three legitimate charges—(1) OPERATING EX-

PENSES, including taxes and interest on the debt; (2) DEPRECIATION, which the Commission recognizes only as a "reimbursement for facilities actually withdrawn from service and only enough to make good any actual wastage of capital"; and (3) DIVIDENDS, equivalent to an accepted allowable rate of interest on the "net property value" which words immediately bring up many conflicting views.

Rate Comparisons

The Federal Power Commission can show the public that rates for electricity can be very much less under public control. This, of course, is possible owing to the fact that the government can borrow money much more cheaply than a private utility; also to the fact that a publicly owned utility need pay no federal income taxes. As these amount to over 30 per cent, it can be seen that they are a great factor. Of course, this merely means that the government must collect this money from other taxpayers if the utilities are exempt from taxation. But this point is soft-pedaled by those who advocate public ownership.

The Federal Power Commission can show the people of a community that, by taking over the utilities, they can (1) get a reduction in rates through the saving of interest charges, and (2) get back, within 20 years, all that they pay for the property through the saving in federal income taxes. As the public gradually realizes this fact, there will be more and more properties taken over by Authority. Furthermore, the above mentioned Depreciation Formula and the even more severe original Cost Formula may help the public in getting these properties at bargain prices.

Socialism Increasing

Just now we hear little about public ownership in this country, but it is spreading at a rapid rate throughout Europe and the British Empire. Sooner or later the shadow of Socialism will fall on the United States. The New Deal is preparing the ground. When it hits the utilities will be one of the first groups to suffer. The bonds of public utility operating companies should be perfectly safe; but it may be wise for investors in utility stocks to cash in now before their properties are forcibly taken over by public authorities.

State Historian Speaks At D.A.R. Regular Meeting

Dr. Albert Corey, state historian, gave an illustrated talk on "Historic Houses of New York State" at the regular meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., Thursday afternoon. He introduced his talk by noting that since 1858, thirty-two historic properties have been restored in the direction of which are under the direction of the educational department, because Colonial houses are considered part of the education of the people.

The illustrated talk included the Phillips House at Yonkers made famous for its portraits; Fort Crailo, Rensselaer built in 1704 in Dutch design and called the Yankee Doodle House because the song was written there; the Johnstown Mansion built in 1774 at Johnstown which houses the 4th oldest Masonic Lodge in the country; Guy Park House at Amsterdam which is the meeting place of the D.A.R. chapter. Pictures were also shown of Grant cottage which has been turned into a soldier's rest camp. Monuments shown were those at Oriskany, Bennington, and Temple Hill. Houses of the Revolutionary period shown were the General Herkimer House, Philip Schuyler Mansion in Albany; the Clinton House built in 1777 in Poughkeepsie which is also the meeting place of the D.A.R.; Washington's Headquarters at Newburgh.

Dr. Corey said that the Senate House in Kingston is to be restored to the 1770 period. Many changes in the present building and furnishings are being planned.

Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, regent, presided at the short business meeting. Mrs. William McGreggor Mills, state chairman of the New York State Chapter at Tamassee School told about her recent visit to the school and of the work being done there. Mrs. Roger Billings, chairman of the Junior Group, reported on the proposed projects for the year.

Mrs. Dumm reminded all members of the May luncheon at which Miss Elda Gibson, New York State regent will be guest of honor. Reservations are to be made as soon as possible. She also reported the success of the recent bazaar.

Following the meeting tea was served with Mrs. William Finch presiding at the tea table. The table was arranged with a bouquet of jonquils and in yellow and white color scheme. Hostesses were Mrs. Catherine Clearwater, Mrs. A. D. Monell, and Mrs. J. G. Steiner.

Dance Is Scheduled For Saturday Night

Three Are Initiated In Delta Kappa Gamma

The members of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teaching sorority, met in New Paltz, Saturday, March 30. Three teachers: Agnes Van Orden of Highland, Edith Garthe of Wappingers Falls and Anna Devine of Rifton were initiated.

Following the initiation the members met at the Old Fort for luncheon. Emma Pratt, a newspaper woman and an editor of the Ulster County News, spoke to the group on the importance of the newspaper and using it as a teaching device in all subjects.

Ruth Mack Havens presented president pins to the past presidents, Irene Compton of New Paltz, Susan Collier of Newburg, Frieda Dinger of Kingston, and Gertrude Thompson of New Paltz. President May Quimby presented a president's pin to Ruth Mack Havens as the first state president and for organizing the sorority in the state.

European Famine Inevitable, Is Hoover's Opinion

America Must Ship Wheat, He Says, if Hungry Get Bare Needs: Asks Help

April 5 (AP)—Herbert Hoover today said that famine is inevitable in Europe unless wheat and other large wheat producing countries immediately ship all available food supplies to the Emergency Food Conference here on the results of a personal survey of Europe. Hoover declared that "hungry sits at the table three times daily in hundreds of millions of homes. The American people, under the leadership of President Truman, already have responded generously to the call for a drastic reduction in their consumption of bread stuffs and fats. Hoover declared: "We shall scrape the bottom of the barrel," he added.

The honorary chairman of President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee said his inspection of European areas had disclosed that suffering from lack of proper diet was greatest among children and adults in urban areas.

He estimated that 5,000,000 tons of cereals a month and additional shipments of fats were needed in Europe to avert "disaster."

Hoover estimated that 20,000,000 children from the Russian frontier to the English channel "are not only badly undernourished but are steadily developing tuberculosis, rickets, anemia and other diseases of subnormal feeding."

Paris 'Bluebeard' Is Found Guilty; To Be Executed

Stunned, Killer Shouts 'Revenge' to Brother; Damages Set for Victim's Kin

By MEL MOST

Paris, April 5 (AP)—Dr. Marcel Petiot, accused of operating a "Bluebeard" murder mill within the forbidding walls of his residence on the Rue Le Sueur, was condemned to death last night after a three-week trial had ended in his conviction for more than a score of killings.

The hollow-eyed little physician was shocked into silence when the verdict was read, but within a few minutes recovered sufficiently to shout to his brother, Maurice, in the crowded Palais De Justice: "I must be avenged."

Petiot, a legendary figure in Paris and described by the prosecution as "the Monster of the Rue Le Sueur," said he would appeal. After passing the death sentence, the court continued in session and early today awarded civil damages of 2,045,001 francs (about $17,000) to the families of Petiot's victims. The awards ranged from one franc to 880,000.

The 35-year-old, swarthy physician, in whose home Police found the remains of a number of expertly dismembered bodies, had maintained he was a leader in the Resistance movement and that all of those killed were collaborators and "Gestapo decoys."

The prosecution charged that he operated a murder-for-profit scheme, collecting money from at least 21 victims whom he promised to smuggle out of Nazi-occupied France.

The verdict was returned shortly before midnight by a secret vote of 12 jurors and three judges who deliberated two hours and 25 minutes.

Legion Auxiliary to Hold Events in Woodstock

Woodstock, April 5—An Easter holiday and book sale will be held at the Dairyale store Saturday, April 15, at 11 a. m. It was decided at a meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary in Legion headquarters.

It was also decided to hold a cafeteria supper at the Legion building Saturday, June 1, at 5:30. In order to complete the kitchen equipment of the building each member has been requested to bring a dish towel with him to the meetings. A food sale has also been planned to raise money for kitchen utensils.

After the recent meeting a social hour was held. The refreshments consisted of a large birthday cake and ice cream.

At a Legion dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, last Saturday night in honor of State Commander Miles Kennedy and Mrs. H. Burdett, local people who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kuschback, Mr. and Mrs. William Frost, George Herman, David Millholland, William Wesley O'Brien and Mrs. Mitzie Engels.

Yale and Towne Strike Ends; One Of Nation's Longest

by representatives of the company, union and the conciliators.

Feelings Were Intense

The strike was marked by the intensity of the feelings it aroused. Shortly before the negotiations opened last week a delegation of Stamford A.F.L. and C.I.O. unionists went to Washington and told Department of Labor officials the government might have to take over the plant to prevent "bloodshed."

State police and pickets clashed at factory gates on several occasions, the most recent two weeks ago when 24 arrests were made.

A general work stoppage in Stamford industry occurred January 2 when a crowd estimated at 10,000 by police staged a mid-town demonstration in support of the strikers.

As they emerged from the New York conference, spokesmen for both company and union expressed gratification at the end of the strike.

Jerome Y. Sturm, union attorney, said: "The membership of the union will certainly agree that a great victory has been won. I believe that tomorrow should be designated as V-J Day in Stamford—it certainly will be remembered. This has been one of the longest and biggest strikes since V-J Day."

From Weldon P. Monson, company industrial relations attorney, came this statement: "We are happy the strike is over and we will look forward to a new era of production."

Proclamation

Public Health Nurse

Mayor W. F. Edelmuth today issued the following proclamation designating next week as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week in the city:

WHEREAS the health of all its citizens is a major responsibility of the city of Kingston, and WHEREAS Kingston must continue to move forward on all health fronts and wage an all-out fight against sickness that strikes at home and family, and

WHEREAS the public health nurses in Kingston from the health department, schools and industries, are essential to progress toward this goal, and

WHEREAS The National Organization for Public Health Nursing and the U. S. Public Health Service have designated April 7-13 as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week, so that people everywhere may come to learn more about public health nursing services, and

WHEREAS many community groups in Kingston are cooperating in the nation-wide plans for this event.

THEREFORE, I, W. F. Edelmuth, Mayor of Kingston, do hereby proclaim April 7-13 as Know Your Public Health Nurse Week, and do hereby urge all people to join in its observance and in the quest for better health.

Under my hand and seal, in Kingston this fourth day of April in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred Forty-Six, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and seventh.

Kiwanians Hear Historian Talk on State's Old Houses

Dr. Albert B. Corey, director of the division of archives and history, State Department of Education, who was introduced by his old friend, Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw, was an interesting speaker on the program hour of Kiwanis Thursday.

Dr. Corey talked about the historical houses of New York state, illustrating his talk with numerous handsome illuminated photographs of houses and monuments he was discussing.

It was noted that from time to time many of the historic landmarks had been taken over or given to the state. In April, 1944, 27 of these properties were placed under the care of the Education Department, while five others still remain in charge of the Conservation Department.

The speaker noted that an idea of the age of many of the early houses can be obtained by noting the number and location of chimneys. As a rule the pre-Revolutionary houses were built with one large central chimney. Later houses often had two chimneys and still later as many as four chimneys will be found.

Among houses and monuments shown by Dr. Corey were: the Phillips Manor House at Yonkers, built about 1680. One of the fine old colonial manor houses. "The Phillips family lost the property at the time of the Revolution, due to the fact that they espoused the Tory side. It has the finest collection in the country of portraits of the presidents, up to Calvin Coolidge.

The Fort Craillo house at Rensselaer, place where Yankee Doodle was written. The characteristic pre-Revolutionary house of Sir William Johnston at Yonkers, erected in 1782. It contains the original Masonic furniture of Masonic Lodge No. 4, instituted by Sir William. Another house built by Sir William Johnston at Amsterdam in 1754, which although pre-Revolutionary has four chimneys. The house at Mt. McGregor in which General Grant spent the last weeks of his life. The Oriskany battle monument, marking the battle in which General Hickman was fatally wounded. The Bennington monument, marking the Battle of Bennington, which, it was stated, actually was fought on New York state soil. Washington's headquarters and General Knox's headquarters at Newburgh. The Temple Hill monument, marking the spot where the Army was disbanded and where General Washington took farewell of his troops.

Discussing briefly the old Senate House at Kingston Dr. Corey said that plans are ready for pretty complete reconstruction as soon as materials are available.

Kiwanis unanimously approved the Mahoney-Curtis bill providing for a standard work week for uniformed firemen and asked Governor Dewey to sign the bill.

Next Thursday Kiwanians will not be able to have their luncheon at the hotel due to alterations in the kitchen, but they will meet at 12:45 for the regular meeting.

Mr. Gross stated that the dining rooms would be closed April 8 while new equipment is being installed in the kitchen. Equipment will be of stainless steel. He hopes to be able to resume service of meals the following week.

New Jersey Begins Operation of Nine Important Plants

Public Service Gets Works Under New State Law; Employees Give Full Support

Newark, N. J., April 5 (AP)—The state of New Jersey seized and began immediate operation today on the nine gas works of the huge Public Service Electric & Gas Co. at the very hour set by six independent unions for a statewide strike.

The 1,200 workers involved remained at their posts, assuring an uninterrupted flow of gas for heating and cooking to three-fourths of New Jersey's more than 4,000,000 residents.

Gov. Walter E. Edge last night signed the order authorizing the seizure and operation of the gas works under a nine-day-old state utility strike law. He empowered State Labor Commissioner Harry C. Harper to act as administrator of the plants "in order that the manufacturer of gas may continue and that the public interest, health and welfare shall not be interfered with."

This first test of the new state law, which gives the governor power to take over public utilities as a last resort in labor disputes, came at 12:01 a. m. today when state troopers appeared at the scattered plants and read the proclamation to company and union officials. The order was served in Newark on E. A. Lydecker, a public service vice-president.

Union leaders, who previously had announced that workers would stay at their jobs if the state took over in the event negotiations over wage increase demands collapsed, told their members to give 100 per cent cooperation to Harper.

"After 12:01 a. m. Harry Harper will be your new boss," John Landrigan, counsel for the Camden and Glassboro unions, told a union meeting. "There will be no interruption of service, nor will any of you lose a cent of pay."

Under terms of the proclamation, Harper can order all personnel, including management to continue at their tasks at the same pay and working conditions and has power to appoint assistants to aid him in administration of company operations until such time as the wage dispute was settled.

The seized plants are the Paterson Gas Works, Passaic Holder Station, Harrison Gas Works, Market Street Gas Works in Newark, Camden Gas Works, Camden Coke Works, Camden and Peoples Gas

Company plant in Glassboro, Central Gas Works in Raritan Township, and Trenton Gas Works.

The wage dispute began several weeks ago with union demands for a 20 per cent wage increase. The final union decision to strike came yesterday when a conference ended after the company rejected a 13 per cent wage increase demand. The utility had offered 12 per cent increase.

Only the Jersey City Gas Works of the Public Service Company is unaffected by the seizure order. Employees there are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor press rooms—"salon de presse"—and the official United Nations Library.

Has Only 41 Books

So far the library includes only 41 books, most of them almanacs and foreign language dictionaries. Eventually it probably will inherit the million-dollar League of Nations collection.

Across the quadrangle are the cafeteria and a fourth building which is headquarters for the Marine guards.

The cafeteria is UNville democracy at its best. Diplomats and stenographers and handymen stand side by side in line for food and everyone totes his own tray.

Like the three bars—one for delegates, one for reporters and a third for everybody else—and the cigar stand, the cafeteria is a concession, leased by UN to an operating company. It is equipped to feed 10,000 a day. Prices are moderate.

UNville's police chief is a stocky, ruddy-checked one-time Connecticut state trooper named Frank Begley. His 35 UN security police—plainclothesmen—are backed up by 75 veteran Marine and 300 New York city patrolmen, who guard the fence from the outside.

Begley's UN cops have kept UNville safe and sane. If a questionable character slips through, though, they have but two choices: Throw him back into The Bronx or call in the city police. UNville has no jail.

Tentative Salary Schedule Offered

found the $17,000 figure was approximately correct. He said the Federation had been relying on figures from the department when it estimated the increase in public money would be $57,000.
Favors Single Schedule
In opening his remarks Mr. Martocci said the Federation was in favor of the single salary, with some adjustments for the grade and secondary schools.
A "family increment" of $100 for each child under 21, by marriage or adoption, in addition to the salary provided in the schedule, was originally included in the Board's tentative schedule but this clause was withdrawn by the Board at the outset of the discussion on the grounds that after it had been discussed and placed in the tentative schedule, it had been found that the other increases were of a much more substantial sum than had been anticipated and the Board felt it impossible to grant any "family increments." The Federation asked that this be left in. Under the schedule the present $150 "cost of living" bonus becomes a permanent part of the base salary of the teachers and in addition the Board submitted a proposal for a $250 increase in minimum salaries. Mr. Feeney said the Board felt that under present conditions $250 was all that could be allowed but the matter would be taken under advisement. He stated that it would cost about $9,000 to bring the teachers up to the new minimums, about 24 teachers would be affected.

The Federation objected to a proposal to eliminate further "cost of living adjustments" on the grounds no one could tell what the future held.
The Federation also asked for increments above the maximum in the schedule for additional years of service. For seven years and less than twenty years service they asked an additional $100 and for more than twenty years of service they asked $200 above the maximums. Mr. Feeney stated that it was believed this would add about $16,000 to the budget.
In reply to a statement that Kingston school salaries had been very low, Mr. Feeney stated that an investigation of salaries in effect in the past in cities of like size and situation, disclosed that the Kingston salary schedule had been on par with most others.

Tenure Is to Be Retained
The matter of tenure of office is to be retained in accordance with State Education Department requirements. Trustee Cook stated that if the teachers were willing to waive the tenure of office provision it might "help out" since some teachers who were now being continued because of tenure of office regulations could be dismissed. He said the tenure of office provision was a "protection of the job" matter.
Objection to certain provisions of the schedule were pointed out. In one instance it was pointed out that a teacher who had taught 46 years was getting $2,100 and it would take that teacher six years before the maximum salary of $2,600 could be reached under the proposed schedule. Consideration of such cases was asked in order that pension benefits be enhanced.
Instead of the nine salary levels proposed the Federation asked for eleven levels. It was also asked that the five year service level be reduced to two years and that conditions for graduate work be altered somewhat.
Transfers on a seniority basis was suggested rather than at the will of the board.
It was also suggested that promotions to principalships come from within the school system and that grade school principals, where qualified, be given opportunity for high school principalships. The Federation also asked that the requirements for principalship in the M. J. M. school be on the level of grade schools and not on the high school level as set forth by the Board.

It was also suggested that the Board adopt the state minimum requirements for secondary school principals, instead of additional and higher requirements.
The matter of credit hours was also discussed but there were numerous other details of the schedule.
Board Is Thanked
At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Martocci thanked the Board for its spirit of co-operation and he stated that he felt sure the Board and the teachers could iron out suggested changes to the satisfaction of all.
As soon as the recommendations are received from the Federation, which is also acting as spokesman for the Association, the Board will meet to consider these recommendations and then a salary schedule will be drawn up and adopted so that contracts may be presented for the coming year and the school budget for the ensuing year can be adopted. This meeting will probably take place next week.

Chicago Prepares Military Display

President Will Review Troops at Army Day

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—Uncle Sam marshalled forces today to display the nation's military might before President Truman in an Army Day spectacle tomorrow.
Army officers, secret service men and city officials made final preparations for the one-day visit of Truman, accompanied by Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, and the Army "top brass." Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander, Army Air Forces; Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander, Army Ground Forces, and Lt. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, commander, Army Service Forces, were all included in the group to review a great Army Day parade with Mr. Truman.
The President planned to leave Washington by train late today and arrive at Chicago's Union station at 9:30 a. m. C.S.T. tomorrow. Admiral William Leahy, presidential chief of staff, was due with his party, and probably Secretary of the Treasury Vinson.
Plans called for a parade of Mr. Truman's party from the Union station through the loop to a reviewing stand on Michigan avenue at the Congress street plaza. At ter the Army Day parade the President was to have luncheon at the Blackstone Hotel, then arrive at Soldier Field amid a 21-gun salute for a 20-minute speech at 3 p. m. to be carried by the four major radio networks. He will return to Washington immediately thereafter.

Eisenhower was scheduled for five minute addresses.

Circus Opens Its Season at Garden

Performances Bring Out 14,500 Spectators

By JEAN SMALL
New York, April 5 (AP)—The circus opened its 1946 season in prewar style last night and for three and a half hours 14,500 spectators in Madison Square Garden watched talented performances that almost warranted the glittering superlatives of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey press corps.
The trained seals were "self-applauding comedians from the briny deep with equilibristic prowess unlimited."
The acrobatic acts were "an incomparable plethora of globally celebrated acrobatic prodigies, including three sensation troupes making their American debut."
The white-faced red-nosed clowns were "a futuristic tidal wave sweeping the arena with heroic nonsense in a howling hurricane of histrionic hilarity."
The flying trapeze acts "taps-try hitherto conceived only in flights of purest fancy."
Well nearly
And in addition:
There were dancing elephants in blue satin dresses, a pageant of childhood toys come to life, acrobatics on horseback, the incomparable Wallendas of the high wire and scores of beautiful girls.

The giant gorilla paced his cage and looked wistfully at his bride, Toto, separated from him by bars. He stuck his fingers through to try to reach her. Toto reclined in a Cleopatra attitude on one elbow, and ignored him.
The famed Otaris of the flying trapeze returned. Five brothers were overseas during the war. Two were wounded and one was killed on D-Day. But the act was back—this time headed by Frank, their 67-year-old father, who replaced the son who was killed.

Studio Handyman Died From Fall Coroners Report

Found Dying Following Party on 'Hell' Set; Police Had Charged Murder

Hollywood, April 5 (AP)—Authorities leaned today toward a theory of accident in the death of a 31-year-old studio set worker whose battered body was found below a movie lot backdrop, after a gay party on a set reproducing Hell in Papier-Mache.

The victim was Edward R. Gray, father of three, three months out of service. Gray was a grip, a handyman classification which includes carpenters, electricians and other trades. Police said he was not employed on the particular picture whose crew and cast were celebrating conclusion of its filming, but had joined the party with a fellow-worker.

Dying from head injuries and a fractured pelvis, he was found early yesterday by a studio policeman making his rounds at General Service Studio, where Paul Muni played host Wednesday night to workers on "Angel On My Shoulder," a film about a crook

Vincent Youmans Is Dead in Denver

Denver, April 5 (AP)—Vincent Youmans, 47, composer of such popular song hits as "Great Day" and the immortal "Tea for Two," died in Denver today at 7:35 a. m. (E.S.T.) after an illness of several weeks.

Youmans died of tuberculosis. He had been confined in a local sanitarium for more than a month. The famed songwriter, who wrote musical scores for a dozen or more hit Broadway productions, was born in New York city. He first hit the big time in the music world in 1920, when he turned out the score for the musical comedy hit "Two Little Girls in Blue."

who goes to hell, in which he stars with Anne Baxter. All the actors, the studio said, had departed several hours before Gray was injured.

Det. Sgt. Stanley W. Johnson called the death murder after an on-the-spot investigation, but Autopsy Surgeons Louis Gogol and Fred Newbarr asserted:

"A fall from a height of 40 feet or more could have done it. He didn't get hurt that way in a fight."

Weather Outlook

New York, April 5 (AP)—Weather forecast for Middle Atlantic States Easter and Central New York, tomorrow through Wednesday inclusive: Some light rain is likely in extreme north portion Saturday. Light rain Sunday and again about Wednesday. A little warmer in south portion Saturday, warmer Sunday, colder Monday. Rising trend Tuesday and Wednesday except becoming colder in north portion Wednesday. Temperature will average two to five degrees below normal in north portion and near normal in south portion. Normals for Northern New York, 42; Southern New York, 50 to 55; Eastern New York, 41; Central New York, 41.

Division Leaders For 'Y' Campaign

Four Branches of Service Represented in Four City Divisions

The division leaders have been announced for the Y.M.C.A. Drive starting April 24. This announcement came from Dwight McEntee at a noon meeting with his co-chairmen. The four division commanders are Sherwood Davis, Clarence Rowland, Jr., Roy Mayone and N. Jansen Fowler. The city of Kingston will be divided into four divisions under these men.

These four commanders have all been recently discharged from service. Davis from the Army, Rowland from the Air Corps, Mayone from the Marines, and Fowler from the Navy. These four branches of the service will create interest and competition in the campaign as represented by these men. All four men have been actively interested as members and workers in the Y.M.C.A. during past years. They have been interested in the boys' department for which this campaign has been set up. They expect to have other service men volunteer to work with them to build up the boys' department as a result of the campaign.

Each division will meet shortly. At that time the ward leaders will meet with their commanders to plan the campaign.

Dwight McEntee with his co-chairmen, Thomas Bohan, Harold V. Clayton and George H. McKay, were enthused over the report given by Secretary Tandy over the Initial Gift Committee's progress up to date. Mr. Tandy also reported that there were some splendid candidates ready for the Personal Committee of the "Y" to consider the boys' program secretaryship in Kingston.

Course in Driving
Albany, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—A course in automobile driving has been prepared for New York's high schools by the State Education Department, the department announced today. Classroom instruction and road training are outlined in the syllabus just issued. The course, recommended to all high schools of the state, would carry graduation credit of half a unit. More than 100 New York schools taught driving before the war, the department said.

The koala bear is the most popular Australian animal.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Now You Can Spray Away
Cucumber Seeds

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

SCIENCE is rapidly displacing the "green thumb" in gardening. Now, for example, you can grow seedless cucumbers merely by spraying them. It's as simple as that.

By spraying cucumber plants with a hormone spray now available you can insure "set" of the first flowers which usually fall off during early spring.

The hormone spray causes the cucumber plants to produce fruits almost devoid of seeds, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

It also causes the fruits to ripen weeks earlier than normal and increases the yield and size of fruits. It also pollinates self sterile plants.

Cucumbers without seed are not only of better quality, but they will remain in sound condition much longer.

If cucumber vines in last year's vegetable garden became diseased it will be best this year to plant in a different section of the garden and select disease-resistant varieties.

The Chinese variety is extremely disease-resistant. It is claimed, in fact, that this variety is free of both blight and fungus diseases.

Longfellow is another variety that is a vigorous grower and is less subject to disease than many other varieties.

Long Green also is unusually hardy and disease-resistant.

HIGHLAND

Highland, April 4—Dr. and Mrs. Victor P. Salvatore left Wednesday for a week spent at Atlantic City.

Mrs. George DuBois entertained the Monday afternoon Bridge Club at her home on White street. The club will not meet on the coming Monday.

State Historian Speaks At D.A.R. Regular Meeting

Dr. Albert Corey, state historian, gave an illustrated talk on "Historic Houses of New York State" at the regular meeting of the Dutchess Chapter, D.A.R., Thursday afternoon. He introduced his talk by noting that since 1838, thirty-two historic properties have been restored in the state, 27 of which are under the direction of the educational department, because Colonial houses are considered part of the education of the people.

The illustrated talk included the Phillips House at Yonkers made famous for its portraits; Fort Crailo in Rensselaer built in 1704 in Dutch design and called the Yankee House because the song was written there; the Johnston Mansion built in 1774 at Johnstown which houses the oldest Masonic Lodge in the country; Guy Park House at Amherst which is the present place of the D.A.R. chapter. Pictures were also shown of Grant cottage which has been turned into a soldier's rest camp. Monuments shown were those at Arnsburg, Bennington and Temple Hill. Houses of the Revolutionary period shown were the General Herkimer House, Philip Schuyler Mansion in Albany, the Clinton House built in 1777 in Poughkeepsie which is also the meeting place of the D.A.R.; Washington's Headquarters at Newburgh.

Dr. Corey said that the State House in Kingston is to be restored to the 1770 period. Many changes in the present building and furnishings are being planned.

Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, regent, presided at the short business meeting. Mrs. William McGregor Mills, state chairman of the New York State Chapter of the D.A.R., presided at the school and of the work being done there. Mrs. Roger Billings, chairman of the Junior Group, reported on the proposed projects for the year.

Mrs. Dumm reminded all members of the May luncheon at which Miss Elda Gibson, New York State regent will be guest of honor. Reservations are to be made as soon as possible. She also reported the success of the recent bazaar.

Following the meeting tea was served with Mrs. William Finch presiding at the tea table. The table was arranged with a bouquet of jonquills and in yellow and white color scheme. Hostesses were Mrs. Catherine Clearwater, Mrs. A. D. Monell, and Mrs. J. G. Steiner.

Dance Is Scheduled For Saturday Night

The Bnai B'rith Girls will hold a dance Saturday evening at the Congregation Agudas Achim hall on West Union street. "Gentlemen of Swing" will furnish music for the dance from 9 to 12:30 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the club or at the door.

A program consisting of "Truth or Consequences" and an all girl chorus is part of the entertainment for the evening. Ann Greenberg will be mistress of ceremonies. The club has invited boys from Middletown and Monticello to be guests for the evening. All children and adults are urged to attend.

found the $17,000 figure was approximately correct. He said the Federation had been relying on figures from the department when it estimated the increase in public money would be $57,000.

Favors Single Schedule

In opening his remarks Mr. Martocci said the Federation was in favor of the single salary, with some adjustments, for the grade and secondary schools.

A "family increment" of $100 for each child under 21, by marriage or adoption, in addition to the salary provided in the schedule, was originally included in the Board's tentative schedule but this clause was withdrawn by the Board at the outset of the discussion on the grounds that after it had been discussed and placed in the tentative schedule, it had been found that the other increases were of a much more substantial sum than had been anticipated and the Board felt it impossible to grant any "family increments." The Federation asked that this be left in.

Under the schedule the present $150 "cost of living" bonus became a permanent part of the base salary of the teachers and in addition the Board submitted a proposal for a $250 increase in minimum salaries. Mr. Feeney said the Board felt that under present conditions $250 was all that could be allowed but the matter would be taken under advisement. He stated that it would cost about $9,000 to bring the teachers up to the new minimums, about 24 teachers would be affected.

The Federation objected to a proposal to eliminate further "cost of living adjustments" on the grounds no one could tell what the future held.

The Federation also asked for increments above the maximum in the schedule for additional years of service. For seven years and less than twenty years service they asked an additional $100 and for more than twenty years of service they asked $200 above the maximums. Mr. Feeney stated that it was believed this would add about $16,000 to the budget.

In reply to a statement that Kingston school salaries had been very low, Mr. Feeney stated that an investigation of salaries in effect in the past in cities of like size and situation, disclosed that the Kingston salary schedule had been on par with most others.

Tenure Is to Be Retained
The matter of tenure of office is to be retained in accordance with State Education Department requirements. Trustee Cook stated that if the teachers were willing to waive the tenure of office provision it might "help out" since some teachers who were now being continued because of tenure of office regulations could be dismissed. He said the tenure of office provision was a "protection of the job" matter.

Objection to certain provisions of the schedule were pointed out. In one instance it was pointed out that a teacher who had taught 46 years was getting $2,100 and it would take that teacher six years before the maximum salary of $2,600 could be reached under the proposed schedule. Consideration of such cases was asked in order that pension benefits be enhanced.

Instead of the nine salary levels proposed the Federation asked for eleven levels. It was also asked that the five year service level be reduced to two years and that conditions for graduate work be altered somewhat.

Transfers on a seniority basis was suggested rather than at the will of the board.

It was also suggested that promotions to principalships come from within the school system and that grade school principals, where qualified, be given opportunity for high school principalships. The Federation also asked that the requirements for principalship in the M. J. M. school be on the level of grade schools and not on the high school level as set forth by the Board.

It was also suggested that the Board adopt the state minimum requirements for secondary school principals, instead of additional and higher requirements.

The matter of credit hours was also discussed as were numerous other details of the schedule.

Board Is Thanked
At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Martocci thanked the Board for its spirit of co-operation and he stated that he felt sure the Board and the teachers could iron out suggested changes to the satisfaction of all.

As soon as the recommendations are received from the Federation, which is also acting as spokesman for the Association, the Board will meet to consider these recommendations and then a salary schedule will be drawn up and adopted so that contracts may be presented for the coming year and the school budget for the ensuing year can be adopted. This meeting will probably take place next week.

Chicago Prepares Military Display

President Will Review Troops at Army Day

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—Uncle Sam marshalled forces today to display the nation's military might before President Truman in an Army Day spectacle tomorrow.

Army officers, secret service men and city officials made final preparations for the one-day visit of Truman, accompanied by Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, and the Army "top brass."

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander, Army Air Forces; Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander, Army Ground Forces, and Lt. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, commander, Army Service Forces, were all included in the group to review a great Army Day parade with Mr. Truman.

The President planned to leave Washington by train late today and arrive at Chicago's Union station at 9:30 a. m. C.S.T. tomorrow. Admiral William Leahy, presidential chief of staff, was due with his party, and probably Secretary of the Treasury Vinson.

Plans called for a parade of Mr. Truman's party from the Union station through the loop to a reviewing stand on Michigan avenue, at the Congress street plaza. At ter the Army Day parade the President was to leave for the Blackstone Hotel, then arrive at Soldier Field amid a 21-gun salute for a 20-minute speech at 3 p. m. to be carried by the four major radio networks. He will return to Washington immediately thereafter.

Secretary Patterson and Gen. Eisenhower will schedule their minute addresses.

Tidal Wave Death Toll Might Be 166

Honolulu, April 5 (AP)—Latest reports today placed the probable death toll of Monday's tidal wave in eastern Pacific areas at 166 and increased the estimated damage to $50,000,000 in the Hawaiian Islands alone.

Eight more bodies were found at the island of Hawaii, most of them in Hilo Bay, that revolved to

Studio Handyman Died From Fall Coroners Report

Found Dying Following Party on 'Hell' Set; Police Had Charged Murder

Hollywood, April 5 (AP)—Autopsy men today found a theory of accident in the death of a 31-year-old studio set worker whose battered body was found below a movie lot backdrop, after a gay party on a set reproducing Hell in Papier-Mache.
The victim was Edward R. Gray, father of three, three months out of service. Gray was a grip, a handyman classification job. He was employed by the particular picture whose crew and cast were celebrating conclusion of its filming, but had joined the party with a fellow-worker.
Dying from head injuries and fractured pelvis, he was found early yesterday by a studio policeman making his rounds at General Service Studio, where Paul Muni played host Wednesday night to workers on "Angel On My Shoulder." A film about a crook

Four Branches of Service Represented in Four City Divisions
The division leaders have been announced for the Y.M.C.A. Drive starting April 24. This announcement came from Dwight McEntee at a noon meeting with his co-chairmen. The four division commanders are Sherwood Davis, Clarence Rowland, Jr., Roy Mayone and N. Jansen Fowler. The city of Kingston will be divided in four divisions under these men. These four commanders have all been recently discharged from service. Davis from the Army, Rowland from the Air Corps, Mayone from the Marines, and Fowler from the Navy. These four branches of the service will create interest and competition in the campaign as represented by these men. All four men have been actively interested as members and workers in the Y.M.C.A. during past years. They expect to have other service men volunteer to work with them to build up the boys' department as a result of the campaign. Each division will meet shortly. At that time the ward leaders

Vincent Youmans Is Dead in Denver
Denver, April 5 (AP)—Vincent Youmans, 47, composer of such popular song hits as "Great Day" and the immortal "Tea for Two," died in Denver today at 7:35 a. m. E.S.T. after an illness of several weeks.
Youmans died of tuberculosis. He had been confined in a local sanatorium for more than a month.
The famed songwriter, who wrote musical scores for a dozen or more hit Broadway productions, was born in New York city. He first hit the big time in the music world in 1920, when he turned out the score for the musical comedy hit "Two Little Girls in Blue," who goes to hell, in which he stars with Anne Baxter. All the actors, the studio said, had departed several hours before Gray was found.

Rain, Chilly Last Night
Another rainstorm broke over Kingston last night and chilly weather continued today. The city today, with the lowest temperature recorded during the night of 45 degrees. Temperatures yesterday ranged from 39 to 55 degrees.

Just Wanted Scotch
Cape Vincent, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—Burglars who broke into the summer home of Mrs. Howard Gilmore of New York city and Stamford, Conn., stole $2,400 worth of old Scotch whiskey but ignored champagne and choice wines valued at $1,000. The theft, reported to police yesterday, was believed to have occurred last week-end. The home has been closed since 1913 with a caretaker in charge.
